KEEPS GERMANS BUSY

Observers Declare That Situation
Will Prevent Switching of German Forces From One
Front to the Other.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, March 19.—The apparent failure of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's various attempts to reach Warsaw, the re-appearance of Russians on the East Prussian border near Tilsit, and the allied offensive in the east, has, according to British observers, put Germany in a position where she dare not shift any substantial force from either east or west.

Germans Short of Troops.

Although there are rumors of reinforcements being hurried from Poland to France or Belgium to meet French and British thrusts, military writers in London hold to the opinion that Germany must maintain her present armies in both areas of fighting in fact. This will necessitate the finding of new forces for both the east and the west, if she would effectually meet the increasing strength of her enemies. It is pointed out that the plans to deliver a crushing blow in one theatre, then to rush across the country to the other, has miscarried on both fronts. This was seen first in the dash to Paris, second, in the rush for Calais; third, in the battle of Ypres, and then repeatedly in the east as Von Hindenburg sought to break through the Russian line to the Polish capital.

Offensive Against British.
Considerable mystery surrounds the next move of the Germans, although the prevailing belief here is that it will be a big offensive against the British front. Great Britain has made no official reply to the German allegations that a British squadron fired on the German cruiser Dresden while she was within the three mile limit of Chilean waters, and no denial has been forthcoming of the German statement that the Dresden was blown up by her own crew.

The government is proceeding with the plan to mobilize women to replace men needed in the war. Upward of 700 women, willing to substitute for men, have been protecting during the past twenty-four hours.

German Statement.
Berlin, wireless to Sayville, March 19.—The German general staff today gave out a report on the progress of the war, reading as follows:
"In the Champagne district further French attacks have failed. One of these was to the north of Le Mesnil and the other to the north of Beaumont. We took as prisoners two French officers and seventy soldiers. After heavy losses the French retreated under our effective fire back to their former positions. The French made several advances. In the plain of Woivre the French attacks have been repulsed, while on the east side of the Meuse the fighting continued."
"The situation in the vicinity of Meuse, in East Prussia, is not yet clear. It would appear that minor Russian detachments have entered Meuse. Counter measures have been taken."

"All the Russian attacks between the river Pissa and the river Orzy, to the northeast of Przemysl have been repulsed. Only Greeks, Turks and Bulgarians have been engaged in the fighting. The situation south of the Vistula shows no change."

Shell Black Sea Port.
Constantinople, via wireless Berlin, London, March 19.—One official statement from Turkish headquarters says:
"Our fleet early today bombarded the ship yards and maneuvering place of torpedo boats west of Theodosia on the Black sea, in Crimea, a part of Russia, and set the buildings on fire."

An allied enemy fleet heavily shelled the fort of the Dardanelles, which replied effectively, sinking the French battleship Bouvet."

The French battleship Bouvet, which is reported in a Turkish official statement to have been sunk in the Dardanelles, was 12,000 tons displacement, laid down in 1893, with a complement of 631 men. Her armament consisted of 2 12-inch guns, 2 10-inch, eight 5.5-inch, eight 3.9-inch and 200 2.5-inch guns. She was sunk by a torpedo boat.

Warships Slightly Damaged.
Paris, March 19.—An artillery duel in the Dardanelles between Turkish shore batteries and British and allied allied mine sweepers, lasted from midnight until 2 a. m. yesterday, says an Athens dispatch to Havas agency, based upon information from Penedos. The British mine sweepers have been struck by several shells, but the damage done was slight. Two shore batteries were silenced.

BLOCKADE APPLIES TO MEDITERRANEAN

British Foreign Office Makes Interpretation of Language of Recent Note.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, March 19.—Considerable confusion has resulted from the varied interpretation of the language in the note of Foreign Secretary Gray, concerning the effects of the British blockade would have on Mediterranean waters. To clear this up the foreign office says specifically that Mediterranean waters are regarded as European waters, and consequently the blockade will maintain just as in the North Sea.

War News Summary.

The new Russian invasion of Germany apparently has led to the occupation of Memel, an important Baltic port at northern tip of East Prussia. The German official report of today indicates that Russian forces have entered the city.

Petrograd believes that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg has decided to launch a new attack on Warsaw from the west. Russian military authorities assert that the Germans have abandoned their attack in the north.

The developments of yesterday on the western front were a repetition of the local engagements. Minor successes were claimed by French in northwestern France and in the Argonne. The German statement says several attacks on the allies failed.

The Russian army is said to have won another victory, capturing a Turkish base on the Black sea, near the Russian border.

Two more British steamers have been torpedoed by German submarines in the English channel.

What is said to be a presentation of Austria's attitude toward Italy, as set forth in Vienna, is that Austria, if she agrees to make territorial concessions sufficient to satisfy Italy, will defer formal transfer of the territory until after the war. Austria, it is said, desires to assure herself that Italy will adhere to her promise of neutrality in return for the grant.

A Paris dispatch states that Austria is resisting German pressure and that several representatives of the monarchy will go to Berlin to present their reasons for desiring to resist Italy's wishes.

Information from Bucharest is that the Austrian forces in Bukovina have been reinforced and are undertaking a strong offensive movement. It has been reported that the Austrian planes were being hard pressed and might be forced to evacuate Czernowitz.

SHOWER OF SHRAPNEL DRIVES OFF AIRSHIP

Zepppelin Raider Drops Bombs at Calais Killing Seven Persons Before Leaving.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Calais, via Paris, March 19.—A shower of shrapnel from French anti-aircraft guns today drove off a Zepppelin which had dropped bombs and killed seven persons without damaging the railroad station at which they were aimed. The characteristic throb of the Zepppelin's engine gave warning of its approach before it was driven off.

The rays of the powerful searchlights were turned upon the clouds in an endeavor to locate the raiders, but the German craft flew high above the banks of the dark clouds and for some time was invisible. Finally, however, it came into view and the guns were trained upon her. Notwithstanding the bombardment it dropped several bombs which missed the station and then made off as rapidly as possible.

SOCIALIST ELECTED TO BERLIN COUNCIL

Berlin Aldermen Name Herr Sassenbach As Member of Council After Close Vote.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, March 19.—The aldermen of Berlin today elected Herr Sassenbach, socialist and secretary of a labor union, to be a member of the city council. The vote was 16 to 10, the socialist has ever been nominated to this office. There were 56 affirmative ballots, while 16 ballots were blank.

BRITISH STEAMERS SUNK BY GERMANS

Bluejacket and Hyndford Torpedoed.—Former Contained Wheat.—One Man Killed.

London, March 19.—The British steamer Bluejacket, from Liverpool, with wheat, has been torpedoed by a German submarine off Beachy Head. The crew took to the boats. The steamer, although badly damaged, remained afloat.

Second Boat Sunk.
Glasgow, March 19.—The British steamer Hyndford, was torpedoed today in the English channel by a German submarine. It was reported one member of her crew was killed.

BULGAR LANGUAGE BARRED IN SERBIA

Effort Being Made to Destroy Every Trace of Bulgarian Culture in the Country.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Sofia, Bulgaria, via Berlin and London, March 19.—The Bulgarian news agency announced that the Serbian minister of education has forbidden the use of Bulgarian language in private schools, in an effort to destroy every trace of Bulgarian culture in the country. Only Greeks, Turks and Albanians are permitted instruction in their mother tongue. The Serbian language is required in all other schools.

URGE A REFERENDUM ON WOMAN SUFFRAGE AT NEXT ELECTION

Speakers at Hearing Thursday Include Congressman Lenroot, Mrs. Jastrow and Mrs. McCreery.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 19.—Advocates of woman suffrage had a field day before joint committees of the legislature yesterday afternoon. A hearing was held on all the bills to submit the question to a vote of the people. The speakers for the bill were Congressman L. Lenroot, Superior; Mrs. Joseph Jastrow, Madison; Mrs. H. M. Youmans, Wausau; and Mrs. Rox McCreery of Green Bay. Robert Wild of Milwaukee, representing the German-American alliance of the state, appeared in opposition to the measure.

Lenroot Favours Bill.
"Woman's suffrage is coming whether we like it or not," said Congressman Lenroot in urging the legislature to submit the question to a vote of the people. "All the opponent can do is to delay its consideration. I do not know that the extending of the ballot to women will change conditions, but I do know representatives of the German-American alliance of the state, appeared in opposition to the measure."

Men have made mistakes in politics. Women will do the same and I doubt if women will make the same number of mistakes that men have made."

Congressman Lenroot said that to submit this question to a vote of the people was to submit the intelligence of the people of Wisconsin. He said that the man who was opposed to the suffrage issue would be perfectly correct in voting to submit this question. He said that the argument that the people had defeated suffrage by a large majority in 1911 was not conclusive against submitting this question to a vote of the people. He pointed out that the framers of the state and federal constitution made provision for having the people vote on all important questions, because public sentiment might change in the meantime. He pointed out that the republican party swept the country in 1908, but was retired by the democratic party in 1912. He declared that sentiment on the subject is changing rapidly and, regardless of how a member felt personally on the matter, it is his duty to submit this question to a vote of the people. He said the people were able to judge the merits of this question.

"I appear on behalf of 8,000,000 working women, 162,608 of whom are in Wisconsin," declared Mrs. McCreery. "Those women need the protection of the ballot. This is the only way to secure for them the economic forces at work in America today."

Mrs. McCreery gave illustrations of the need of suffrage in order to protect their political rights in various sections of the United States. "Consider, gentlemen," said Mrs. McCreery, "that Illinois, our neighborly state, has an election law which provides for a one hour day for working women. This is merely an illustration of many of the conditions existing all over the country."

Respecting the economic and wage problem confronting the working women, permit me to say in all kind of ways that it is not so difficult to secure laws from your honorable body as it is to secure enforcement of these laws when enacted. I also want to say that there is a distinct connection between the laws as they relate to the hours of labor and the industrial conditions of women and the morality of women."

She gave her own views on the maximum hours of labor, wages and age of consent laws in Wisconsin. "All we are asking for is that our laws shall give the working girl the same protection as is given our working brother," she said. "Would our working brother give up his ballot?"

Robert Wild, Milwaukee, said that he represented 40,000 members of the German-American alliance, sixty-five local lodges, and that these organizations were in favor of the bill. He said that the place for the discord in the family, if the man were not to vote as his wife wanted him or vice versa. He listed the laws that had been passed in Wisconsin in the interest of women and children and better moral conditions and asked if there was a state having woman's suffrage that could offer such a complete and comprehensive set of laws for the labor troubles as they have in Colorado.

IMPLEMENT DEALERS BOOST GOOD ROADS

Promise Support to Commercial Club in Effort to Interest Farmer Boys in Better Highways.

Twelve members of the county implement dealers' association which held a meeting this afternoon at the Grand Hotel, promise to co-operate with the Janesville Commercial Club in its efforts to interest the farmer boys of Rock county in the good roads movement. Entry blanks for the proposed contest which will be explained at the meeting tomorrow at the court house, will be distributed by the dealers who agreed to do all in their power to arouse interest among the boys of their respective counties.

Officers were elected by the association today as follows: C. O. Mallett of Beloit, president; W. W. Dalton, Clinton, vice-president, and H. P. Rastow, Shopshire, secretary.

OLD RESIDENT OBSERVES EIGHTY-NINTH BIRTHDAY

Bartholomew Spence, 1502 Pleasant street, an old resident of Janesville, observed his eighty-ninth birthday today. The event was quietly celebrated at his home. He received a number of post cards and congratulatory messages.

WRIT DELAYS RETURN OF THAW TO ASYLUM

SECURE SECOND WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS TO PREVENT CONFINEMENT IN MAT. TEAWAN.

COMMITMENT DOUBTED

Legality of First Commitment to Hospital for Criminal Inmate Is Made Issue in New Move.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, March 19.—As a result of the various writs and orders sworn out in his behalf, Harry K. Thaw is out in no danger of being returned to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Sing Sing for at least a month. Supreme Court Justice Bijur, signer of two writs of habeas corpus in Thaw's behalf, said today upon conclusion of a conference between himself and counsel for Thaw, the sheriff of New York county, the warden of the Tombs prison, and representatives of the state attorney general's office, that Thaw's attorneys could by means of securing adjournments delay his final hearing upon the first writ cured early in the week until April 19, John B. Stanchfield, Thaw's chief counsel, said he intended to make such moves.

Secures New Writ.
Justice Bijur late last night signed a second writ of habeas corpus bringing up the issue of Thaw's commitment to Matteawan as illegal. The first writ was designed to bring about a test of Thaw's sanity. Both writs were returned to Justice Bijur today. Hearing on the first one he adjourned until later today to allow time for service of the order of Justice Ingraham of the appellate division of the supreme court. The second writ referred to Justice Bijur before whom the trial of Thaw was recently conducted.

This writ, it was admitted, was simply a technical one. Justice Ingraham has already ordered the return of Thaw to Matteawan. He was expected to promptly dismiss the second writ. Then the order of Justice Ingraham requiring that Thaw be kept in the Tombs until argument was heard upon the appeal of Justice Page's decision, was to be served.

After this to submit the appeal to Grant Adjournments.

After this to submit the appeal to Grant Adjournments. He would grant Thaw's attorney a week's adjournment upon writ No. 1. At the end of each week for the following two similar adjournments would be granted. The adjournment would have to come upon Friday next and will probably have been decided. Upon this appeal depends a decision of the question whether Thaw would be sent back to New Hampshire or to Matteawan.

When Russian Forces Retreated, Kurds Fell Upon People Killing Men and Taking Women.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, March 19.—Appalling account of conditions in Armenia have reached the officials in London of the Armenian Red Cross fund. The fund's secretary, who said that the whole plain of Alashgerd is virtually covered with the bodies of men, women and children. When the Russian forces retreated from this district the Kurds fell upon the helpless people and shut them up in mosques. The men were killed and the women carried away to the mountains. The fund says there are 102,000 destitute Armenians now in the Caucasus.

Havre, France, March 19.—Statistics concerning the relief afforded in Belgium up to end of February last, show that the total contributions of money and provisions as follows:
From the United States, $6,200,000; Great Britain, $3,200,000; New Zealand, $500,000; Italy, $500,000; Canada, $500,000; and from Spain and Italy $200,000 each.

FITZGERALD URGES READJUSTMENT OF NATION'S FINANCES

John J. Fitzgerald.

In his final statement on the subject of revenues and disbursements for the last session of the sixty-third congress, just made public, Chairman John J. Fitzgerald of the house committee on appropriations urged an adjustment of the nation's finances. He pointed out that the expenditures of the government exceeded its revenues during the current fiscal year to March 2 by $108,483,442.

FOND DU LAC WANTS STATE FAIR; SEND NEWS TO KELLOGG

Senator Makes Known Offer of Northwestern City—Bradley Bill Repealing Appropriation Favored.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, March 19.—Two things threatening the future of the state fair developed in the legislature today on the finance committee's favorable report on the Bradley bill repealing $255,000 of appropriation for fair improvements and appeals made by telegram to Senator L. G. Kellogg by Fond du Lac business men's organization offering $25,000 to locate the fair in that vicinity and offering a permanent site easily reached by travelers.

The senate concurred in the Carl Hanson resolution for investigation of university land purchases. An anti-hazing bill was advanced and the bill abolishing the Milwaukee county municipal court passed. Engrossment ordered for the Culbertson bill perfecting the process by which a city by commission form of government may be returned to the old form after four years' trial.

Without debate the senate by a vote of 19 to 10 passed the resolution recommended by the committee to invite E. A. Cramer to give a lecture on water power legislation.

Limiting licenses may not be issued to foreigners who have not taken their first citizenship papers under the Everett bill, advanced in the senate.

The assembly passed the Smith bill permitting schools to furnish free lunches to school children. Indefinite postponement was recommended by the assembly committee on education for the bill increasing the non-resident tuition fees at the state university from $100 to $150 a year.

The assembly adjourned until Saturday forenoon and senate until Monday night.

ADD MILITARY POWER TO ENGLISH RULERS

Deem It Necessary to Arm British Authorities With More Power to Quell Trouble in India.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Delhi, India, March 19.—Sir Reginald Henry Craddock, member of the viceroy's council, has made the declaration that it was necessary to arm the military authorities with special powers to act in emergencies and nip in the bud any and all manifestations of lawlessness. This statement was made in connection with the introduction of a bill to India by the governor general's council.

Continuing, Sir Reginald alluded to the "campaign engineered on the Pacific coast of America, when the deplorable had been reduced during the last few months with their minds poisoned and had committed acts of violence in Bengal."

Seditious activity was breaking out all over the country. The late Mr. J. D. B. was declared to be largely due to the economic causes and racial conflicts between Hindus and Mohammedans. The danger was only serious if not checked promptly.

FEDERAL COMMISSION HEAR'S HORN'S CASE

Expect Arguments Will Be Completed Today.—Will Decide If German Should Be Tried at Boston.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Bangor, March 19.—The federal commission hearing the case of Werner Horn, accused of having illegally transported explosives in connection with attempt to wreck the international bridge at Vaneboro, was resumed today. It was expected that arguments of counsel would be concluded before night. Commissioner Charles R. Reid might then decide whether Horn shall be sent to Boston for trial on the indictment returned by the federal grand jury there.

PEACE TREATY MARKS BIRTHDAY OF BRYAN

Secretary Celebrates 55th Birthday by Enhancing Ratification of Peace Treaty.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 19.—Secretary Bryan celebrated his 55th birthday today by enhancing the ratification of the peace treaty with Italy with the Italian ambassador, Count Di Cellerio. Later at his home, Secretary Bryan entertained all the members of his department at his birthday party.

He also entertained the cabinet at luncheon. On his way to the cabinet meeting, wearing a cluster of lilacs, he was hailed by a crowd of admirers. Secretary Bryan smilingly announced: "I have just celebrated my birthday by ratifying the peace treaty with Italy. On Monday ratification of the treaty with Russia will be exchanged and fifteen of these conventions will actually be in effect."

FRENCH PROFESSOR SAYS CINDERELLA'S SLIPPER WAS OF SQUIRREL SKIN

London, March 19.—Cinderella never wore glass slippers. The slipper that the prince fitted to her small foot, and which her two ugly, mean and scheming sisters tried in vain to get her to wear, was not glass. It was made of squirrel skin.

This blow to a tradition dear to childhood was delivered by Cecile Hugon, lecturer in French literature to the Oxford Society for Women's Education in a paper on the subject of fairy tales. When the Cinderella story was turned from French into English, the translator mistook a word.

Perrault, who wrote the tale in French, described the slipper not as "soulie de verre" but as "soulie de vair." Vair and vair sound alike in French, but vair means glass while vair means the fur of the squirrel. Miss Hugon suggests that the slipper might have been of gray, with a dainty trimming of squirrel about the top. Otherwise, they might have been fur top. But in no case did Cinderella receive a pair of glass slippers from her fairy godmother and drop one in the ball room for the prince to find.

CABINET CONSIDERS SHIPPING PROBLEMS

To Decide Attitude on Latest British War Measure Announcing Reprisals Against German Commerce.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 19.—Problems confronting American shipping raised by successive war measures taken by the fighting European nations were before President Wilson and his cabinet today. The conference was expected to arrive at a definite line of action in shaping a protest against the latest war measure—British order in council announcing reprisals against German commerce.

The note to be sent to Great Britain in the near future protesting against some feature of the British order in council and asking for more detailed information about other features, was taken up at today's cabinet meeting. The two points considered were the possible effect of order on American commerce and right of American citizens.

Information laid before the president by Secretary Redfield, regarding the order of trade of the United States since the outbreak of the war was some over in detail.

It was understood that the president would not believe the order would have a serious effect on American commerce because of continuous trade with Great Britain, France and her allies.

The part of the order giving notice that goods suspected of being an enemy destination sent to neutral countries, would be liable to seizure, was understood to have been agreed upon as one of the chief points to be protested against.

SAYS PHILIPPINES MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

Their Retention Means Serious Foreign Complications, According to Senator J. Ham Lewis.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Jefferson City, Mo., March 19.—Warning that the United States must now decide on a definite foreign policy was given by Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois who addressed the Missouri legislature today.

Senator Lewis said that the United States should decide whether she would retain the Philippines and maintain two large fleets to resist aggression on the part of the foreign powers or to continue to isolate and return to the traditional policy of isolation. Senator Lewis said:

"Should the United States find it necessary to make a protest against Japan for seizing China, Japan would probably exact her present ally, England, France and Russia—should she be forced to do so, the United States, then America, would be confronted with a remarkable situation. Should Japan, in connection with China, be forced to vent the grievance of her people by war, she would seize the Philippines and Hawaii as the base from which to intercept our fleet on its way to recover the Philippines. Then Russia, the ally of Japan, would seize northern Alaska."

This would divide our army and navy. England, because of her alliance with Japan, could render no aid to the United States in Canada. Alaska, nor would she dare do so in view of English possessions and English claims in Japan and China."

"Central America, which has a grievance against us because of the claim that we forcibly took Panama, would be tempted to destroy the Panama Canal to prevent our fleet in the Atlantic and Pacific from joining."

"If we continue to advance our civilization into the outposts of China and Japan, and continue to insist on the supervision of South American countries, then we must be prepared to maintain an Atlantic fleet large enough to cover the combined European and American fleets. Europe and we must have a Pacific fleet large enough to defend the coast and islands in the orient against the combined powers of the orient."

REPORT MURDER OF DOMINGO GOVERNOR

Passengers of Steamer Iroquois Bring News of Official's Assassination.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, March 19.—The steamer Iroquois brought to this port today news of the assassination of Governor Zayas of San Domingo, and two of his children, at Azua, a small town about 65 miles southwest of San Domingo. Governor Zayas, it is said, went from San Domingo to Azua as a passenger aboard the Iroquois, to begin his duties as governor of the province. He was in the office two days when an adherent of a rival political party shot and killed him and his two children. He was in command of the forces which had boarded Azua during the recent uprising.

Three white men are among the death cell occupants. An amendment to the penal statute by the last legislature making electrocution or life imprisonment optional for murderers.

PREDICTS AGITATION TO MOVE STATE FAIR

SENATOR BICHLER SEES JUSTIFICATION FOR A RENEWAL OF SUCH ACTIVITY.

MILWAUKEE IS SCORED

Charges That Supervisors Have Not Been Sincere in Their Promises to Make Land Grant.

Madison, Wis., March 19.—Because Milwaukee taxpayers are already heavily burdened with taxes, and claiming that former Chairman Schwemer of the Milwaukee county board made an unauthorized promise to the legislature that the county would do certain lands for state fair purposes, a delegation from the board today joined a committee of the legislature yesterday afternoon that the county should not assume the burden of giving land to the state.

This statement fired Senator W. J. Bichler to an impassioned attack on those who had been responsible for committing the state to its policy on this matter, the charges that the county board had fooled and "hornswoggled" the legislature palpably. He frankly stated that this admission by the supervisors might be justification for removal of activity by other localities in the state for the removal of the fair.

Bichler Gets Support.

Senator C. H. Everett backed up Senator Bichler and testimony of the same character came from Assemblyman Carl Hanson.

The law of 1913 appropriated $255,000 for state fair improvements, contained the provision that Milwaukee county of land adjacent to the fair grounds. Assemblyman Bradley's bill to repeal this law was heard later in the afternoon.

Supervisor Hemming stated the position of the board as determined at Wednesday's meeting in Milwaukee.

"Any criticism in Milwaukee," he said, "is not directed to the competency of the fair board, but to the state's policy of handicapping the fair by refusing to supply adequate funds to run it properly. I believe also that a fair on Sunday would also be a fair on Monday. It would also show that the state would accept and help to starve off constant deficits. It is unfortunate that the legislature two years ago made the fair a permanent institution. It is too much to ask that Milwaukee county assume this burden of $100,000 to $150,000 in times when the laboring classes are taxed to the limit. They should not be taxed to do this. It is absolutely necessary. Milwaukee county already pays a large state tax. We feel that the great state of Wisconsin should make this appropriation for the needed improvement. It is about removing the fair should not be brought into this discussion. That should be considered independently of this proposition. But there is no question about Milwaukee being in a proper place to hold

NEARLY ONE HUNDRED PAINTINGS DISPLAYED UNDER AUSPICES OF ART LEAGUE.

FINE PICTURES SHOWN

Collection Includes Best Works of Middle Western Artists—Exhibit Closes on Saturday.

Nearly a hundred paintings and etchings, including some of the best work of the artists of the middle west, are now on display at the library hall at the annual exhibit held under the auspices of the Janesville Art League. The exhibit opened on Wednesday evening and will close Saturday evening. The collection of the graded schools of the city will be the guests of the Art League at the exhibit tomorrow.

Landscapes, seascapes, children studies, portraits, still life and etchings, all of high class artistic merit, make up the collection which is furnished by the Artists' Guild of Chicago. Among the artists who have pictures on exhibit are: Adolph R. Schultz and Ada W. Schultz, who have a studio at Delavan, Wis., and Adam Emory Albright, who was born in Wisconsin. J. Allen St. John, a nephew of the late J. W. St. John, has several interesting paintings in the exhibit, one "An Autumn Day in Paris," being an especially beautiful study in color.

One of the favorite pictures is the "Scene in Wales," by Albright. It shows two small children, a boy and a girl, fishing on the banks of a rapid stream, typical of the Welsh country. Its vivid realism and splendid coloring and shading it stands out as an especially fine piece of work. Another attractive picture which shows nature at its really is, called "The Lily Pond," the work of Charles Francis Browne.

Mr. Schultz is represented at the exhibit by a reproduction of a spot on which calls forth scenic admiration. A portrait of a young girl at study is the work of Mrs. Schultz and attracts much attention.

Oliver Bennett Grover, who has a reputation as a painter of Venetian scenes, has done a remarkable piece of color work in his painting, "A Venetian Legend," which has a prominent place in the exhibit. "The World is a Stage," another picture by the same artist which again shows his skill in the use of bright color contrasts.

The members of the Art League are anxious that the Janesville public avail itself of this rare opportunity to see pictures of high artistic merit. The club has done much in the way of creating an interest in good art works and in educating the public in the value of high class pictures.

The league now owns seven beautiful paintings, several of them worth many times what was originally paid for them. These are also on display at Library hall.

FIVE DRUNKS BEFORE COURT THIS MORNING

Three Farm Laborers Go on "Annual Spring Spree" and Are Given Fines By Judge Max.

Records for three months were broken in the municipal court this morning, when five men were arraigned before Judge H. L. Maxfield in violation of the city ordinance against the number of prisoners before the court in one morning since this year, and was the result of an "annual spring drunk" of farm laborers.

One of the men, a long of Lima became infected with the spring "bug" yesterday and came to Janesville to drown his thirst. He run afoul of the police and paid a fine of five dollars and cost in court.

Ole Olsen of Orfordville quit his job for the day, and with his winter's wages started to do the town. His bank roll shrunk considerably and he was paying a fine of fifteen dollars and costs. Ole vowed "never again" in the court room when he counted out the cash.

A Snyder of Fellows was let off for his spree with five dollars and costs. John Ryan received fifteen days when he pleaded guilty to being drunk and for vagrancy. Ryan is a woodman and pleaded earnestly for a suspension to take the "job" at home. He was given a fine of $10.00.

Miss Margaret Nolan was very pleasantly surprised at her home on South High street last evening by a number of her friends. The evening was spent in playing games and music. A delightful lunch was served and a very pleasant evening resulted.

Those present were: Blossom Lape, Marie Scarduff, Helen Garbutt, Elliott Hemm, Anna Nolan, Edna Ruggie, Katherine Finley, Emily Summ, Rose Roberly, Rosie Mills and Florence Jackson.

JOHN F. HENNING NAMED LIBRARY BOARD MEMBER

John F. Henning has been appointed a member of the public library board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Michael Hayes. Mr. Henning assumes the duties of his position at once.

PATRICK QUINN BEFORE COURT ON CITY CHARGE

Patrick Quinn appeared before Judge Maxfield in the municipal court this morning, on a warrant charging the violation of the city ordinance for repairing a building within the fire limits without a city permit. The case was adjourned for one week.

WILL TEST OIL SAMPLES FOR LETTING CITY CONTRACT

SEWING CLASS ENDS TERM WITH BANQUET

Each Instructor Presented With Flowing Plant by Students of Night School Class.

Members of the sewing class of the night school enjoyed a banquet and program at the high school last evening, the event marking the close of a most successful term. In appreciation of the work of the instructors, Mrs. S. A. Smith, Miss Ida Linde and Miss Mary Klingbeil, the students presented each with a beautiful flowering plant. Cut flowers at the plate of each guest were souvenirs given by the teachers.

Interest in the work done in the sewing class has been maintained throughout the term as is shown by the fact that the class attendance averaged ninety percent. The work included cutting and fitting and proved to be of high standard.

Championship game Saturday night.

MRS. JAS. R. BOTSFORD

IS CALLED BY DEATH

Dearly Beloved Woman Passes Away This Morning at her Home on Washington Street.

Frances Melinda Lewis Botsford, wife of James R. Botsford, passed away shortly after ten o'clock this morning at her home on North Washington street.

Mrs. Botsford was born at Rouses Point, New York, on Sept. 12, 1836. She came with her parents to Beaver Dam, Wis., in 1850 and on April 29, 1857, she was married to James R. Botsford. In 1884 they came to Janesville, where they have since resided.

Mrs. Botsford was a deeply beloved woman of fine qualities and pleasing personality. She was a member of the Congregational church many many years and was an active Christian worker. Her death will bring genuine sorrow to a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Botsford is survived by four sons: Charles Lewis, Eugene Norris and Calvin Botsford, all of Milwaukee, and James Emerson Botsford of this city. She leaves one brother, Calvin E. Lewis of Milwaukee, ten grandchildren and two great-grandsons.

John S. Bennett.

John S. Bennett died at the home his daughter, Mrs. George Thompson, at Westinghouse Springs, South Dakota, on March 18, 1916. He was 83 years of age, and was a former resident of Rock Prairie from 1852 until 1881. Interment was in Matlock, Iowa, cemetery.

Mrs. Bernard Dugan.

Mrs. Bernard Dugan died this morning at her home, 380 Glen street, after an illness of seven weeks. She was a highly respected resident of the city. Born in Ireland in 1840, she came to Janesville in 1865. She leaves besides a husband seven children, all residing in this city. They are: Hugh, John, J. L. Bear and John Reeder. The remains arrived from Chicago at 11:35 yesterday morning over the C. & N. W. Ry.

Melvin A. Newman.

Funeral services for the late Melvin A. Newman, who died in Chicago March fifteenth, were held yesterday morning at 11:45 at Oak Hill cemetery, where the deceased was buried. The G. A. R. of this city taking charge of the services. The pallbearers were Charles N. Rickett, T. E. Winslow, Louis Trumble, C. B. Evans, J. L. Bear and John Reeder. The remains arrived from Chicago at 11:35 yesterday morning over the C. & N. W. Ry.

The following is an extract from the application made by the deceased to the George H. Thomas Post of Chicago, when he was 66 years of age. He died at age of 74. The extract was supplied by Geo. A. Newman, a brother of the deceased, who was here for the funeral yesterday. It reads:

To George H. Thomas Post, No. 5, Department of Illinois, G. A. R. I have the honor to make application for membership in the George H. Thomas Post No. 5, Department of Illinois Grand Army of the Republic, listing my claim on the following facts: I am 66 years of age and was born in Alexandria county, state of New York, now residing at Chicago, state of Illinois, and by occupation a doctor in dental surgery.

I served during the late rebellion as follows: First enlisted May 2nd, 1861, as private in Co. D, 27th regiment, N. Y. infantry, for the period of one year, and was discharged therefrom as private in Alexandria, Virginia, on the 18th day of August, 1862, by reason of disability.

I was enlisted Sept. 22nd, 1862, as private in Co. F, 155th regiment, N. Y. infantry, and was discharged therefrom as private on the third day of October, 1863, by reason of disability. I never have borne arms against the United States, and have never been convicted of desertion, nor of any other infamous crime.

Signed, MELVIN A. NEWMAN.

WOMAN'S PAGE

SIDE TALKS

By RUTH Y. CAMERON

TRANSLATING FACIAL EXPRESSIONS.

Did you ever notice how interesting it is to watch the expression on people's faces after they have greeted some passing friend or acquaintance? It seems as if the passerby cast the shadow of his personality on his friend's face the moment he saw him, in that tiny moment after the friend has passed out of sight, before the expressions has died away, you can see the effect that personality has on the face.

For instance, as I sit in the trolley car I see the woman opposite bow to someone who passes down the aisle out of sight. The woman opposite me does not know that anyone is watching her and so she is utterly unconscious of the expression that lingers on her face after the friend has passed tells me, to some extent, what she thinks of the friend.

The Smile That Lingers.

Perhaps the smile with which she greeted her friend on it is a pleasant smile, almost tender, and thus I know that the friend who passed by was someone who could inspire such genuine liking.

Sometimes the smile does not linger an instant. It is a mere contraction of the mouth and does not touch the eyes (the seat of real smiles). It snaps on and off as if it were worked by a switch and its owner were economical of smile electricity. Then one knows that one of two things is true. Either the acquaintance is so formal as to require only that kind of an acknowledgment, or the person to whom it is given is not really liked.

The Pat-On-the-Back Smile.

Sometimes the smile of greeting passes into a sort of self-congratulatory smile. Now and then I surprise this kind of a smile on a man's face after he has greeted a woman and I suspect that he is reflecting on how deeply she admires him. Or perhaps the pat-on-the-back smile is on a woman's face after she has greeted some other woman. Then it probably means pleasure at recognition from some social superior.

Expression is the index of the soul. Controlled expression may lie but not the self-conscious expression. That is why I like to watch for such glimpses and try to understand them.

Questions and Answers.

Question—When a couple are going to be married who should buy the household furniture, the man or the woman?

Reply—I believe the formal rule is that the woman buys the linen, the man the furniture. As a matter of fact the average young couple gather their furniture from the four corners of their world. The girl's family often gives her the bedroom furniture she has had at home and the groom's family contributes what they can spare. Then of course there are the wedding presents.

Question—My children bring home their books to study in the fourth and fifth grades. What do you think of it? We never did it when I was a child.

Reply—Nor in my childhood either. I think it is all nonsense. Five hours a day is enough for children of that age to be using their brains. They should be sleeping, eating and playing out of doors the rest of the time.

Animal Jingles

FOR LITTLE FOLK

By ALICE CREW GALL

THE ADVENTURES OF MINNIE MONKEY.

When Minnie Monkey found herself within the circus tent, she said: "I know I'll never get away."

I wish that all the children in the whole wide world could know how very bad it feels to disobey.

The Circus Man said: "Come along, I'm going to teach you tricks. The first thing you'll learn to walk a rope."

And next I'll teach you how to dance and how to beat a drum. You won't be long in learning them, I hope."

So Minnie practiced very hard, and soon the Circus Man said: "That is all you'll need to do today."

Until it's time for you to eat I think that you may go in with the other animals and play."

He took her to a smaller tent, and though she was so scared, she saw all sorts of animals she'd never seen before, the striped zebra and the tall giraffe.

And as she stood and looked at them she heard somebody say: "Good gracious, child, what are you doing here?"

I'll bet a pint of peanuts you have run away from home; You must get back there instantly, my dear."

And Minnie nearly died of joy to hear a voice she knew. You see it was her Uncle Glimpses.

"I'm very sure your mother doesn't know that you are here. I'll take you back at once to her," said he.

The animals all gathered round and said: "Oh, yes, but how? The Circus Man will never let you go."

The plan that Minnie's uncle had for getting her away I'll tell tomorrow if you care to know.

Heart and Home Problems

By MISS ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will you please tell me how to answer an announcement of marriage, and who should answer it, the husband or the wife?

(2) What is the proper way to thank a gentleman friend or your husband's for favors and gifts? How should the note be written?

(3) How many days is it proper to wait before writing?

ANXIOUS. (1) The answer to an announcement should contain congratulations and good wishes. The one who was the better friend of the married person should write letters for you. You will have to tell the gentleman how much you enjoyed the flowers and how pretty they were.

(3) You should answer at once.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am engaged to a young man. A young lady was asked to his home by him or his father when it came time to go home he went with her. They never ask me when three or four young people go there. This isn't the first time he has been with her since we have been engaged. He is always telling me how pretty other girls are, and saying that he would like to go to see them. If a fellow can't be trusted before he is married, what do you think he will be afterward?

I am afraid that the man is tired of you, dear, and wants you to break your engagement. I would, if I were you, because you could not possibly be happy together after you were married.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My head was cut open in three different places four years ago. Most of my hair was cut off the time and since then it has not grown more than an inch. It is split on the ends and very thin. What can I do to make it grow?

H. G. I would advise you to have hair treatments. But if you care for your hair yourself, stuge the ends and massage your scalp about fifteen minutes every night. For a tonic use resorcinol, 1 dram; chloral hydrate, 3 drams; sweet almond oil, 1 dram; chloroform, 6 drams; Eau de Cologne, 6 ounces; rectified spirits, 5 ounces.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) How long should a girl wear her dresses when she is 5 feet 2 inches tall?

(2) When a boy calls should you take his hat and coat, or show him

use and how many places should I make? THANKFUL.

(1) It is very bad for the hair and causes it to turn gray.

Lining is usually used, but cretonne would make a very pretty novelty set. Have a center piece and two sizes of dollies, one for the plate and one for the tumbler.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please give me a recipe which will prevent excessive perspiration. X. Y. Z.

There is nothing which will prevent perspiration without bringing about an unhealthy condition. One who perspires excessively should bathe frequently.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

LENTEN FISH DISHES.

Broiled Sardines—Remove fish carefully from can, drain off as much as possible of the skin. Heat a tablespoon of butter in a frying pan and cook fish in it, turning them so that both sides may be slightly browned. Season with salt, cayenne and a little lemon juice. Lay each sardine on a strip of buttered toast. Serve hot.

Salmon Loaf—Scald two-thirds cup of milk, mince one can salmon, add one-half cup bread crumbs, one tablespoon chopped parsley, salt and pepper; add also two eggs well beaten. Pour in milk a little at a time so as not to get mixture too soft. Steam or bake one hour.

Fish Cakes—Cook three slices of bacon in frying pan, but do not brown; add one cup onion salt and boiling water to three cups potatoes, sliced, and cooked until tender, drain and mash. Add one can fish, flakes, two tablespoons butter, pepper and a little hot milk; beat all thoroughly, shape into cakes, dip in flour, fry in bacon fat.

Crab Salad—Two cups crab meat, remove bone, two cups diced celery, pepper and a little hot milk; mix with a good salad dressing.

Deviled Smoked Halibut—One fourth pound smoked halibut, two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon chopped mustard pickle, one tablespoon vinegar, one tablespoon tomato catsup, one-half teaspoon mustard, salt and pepper. Blend all the seasoning and heat in a bowl set in the water.

When hot spread crackers with mixture, lay a strip of halibut on each, and place in oven or on broiler for two or three minutes before serving.

MOVING DAY HINTS.

Wrap dishes well with newspapers and pack in tubs or barrels or boxes—never in baskets.

Remove mirrors from dressers, buffets, sideboards, etc.

Empty all drawers or fill with pillows or something light, and lock.

Take keys, gas burners and side shelves from the stove and pack them in a box by themselves.

If you have a kitchen cabinet or a cupboard, remove the upper part of the lower, as it is much easier handled.

Roll all your rugs or carpets on a wooden rod and tie them so they will not unroll.

Take beds apart and arrange all the springs, mattresses, heads, feet, etc., together.

Do not crowd everything into one small room or do not have them scattered all over the house, but arrange them without crowding the rooms nearest the door through which they will be carried.

Have everything done before the van arrives.

Cheese Straws—Roll crust thin, sprinkle with grated cheese, fold half over, roll again, cut in strips, bake a light brown, serve piled in log cabin design.

Fruit Tarts—Roll pie crust, cut in rounds, turn edges up and crimp, fill with preserves or jam, bake and serve with a spoonful of whipped cream on each.

Cinnamon Rolls—Roll crust thin, spread with melted butter, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon, start at edge and roll slice off in rounds about a quarter of an inch thick; bake.

Marshmallow Truffles—Cut crust in squares, press four marshmallows on each square with cover, another square, sprinkle with powdered sugar and bake.

Nut Crusties—Cut crusts in rounds, sprinkle with grated nuts, cover with round, place two half nuts on top, bake in hot oven.

A "REACHING POLE."

One of the new inventions is a long "reaching pole," which has many uses in the home.

It is made with a claw at the end, which acts as a hand in getting at high and inaccessible places.

It can be fitted with cloth and used to clean the tops of moldings; it will lift pictures off the moldings, or put them up again; it will place shades in position, take down portieres, etc.

It is light and easy to manipulate, and thus saves much unnecessary straining.

ODDNESS MARKS ALL THE SPRING STYLES

People Who Follow the Fashion Like to be Stared at and They Will be This Spring.

(By Margaret Mason.)

..... Odds bookies but the styles are odd.

..... Its hard to pick the oddest. Yet that one is most odd per-sonal-ly.

..... Which is discreet and mod-est.

..... New York, March 19.—Oddity seems to be the best commodity of the season. The follower of fashion who likes to be stared at as being dashingly different and original cer-tainly has a wide field to choose from.

..... Taken from the tips of her toes to the toe of her French roll with her French lid on it she can go the limit of oddness with perfect impunity.

..... Beginning at the topknot and working down the oddest champagne up to date is the leghorn hat with the transparent drop curtain of tulle through which the wearers eyes peer.

..... seductively. Even topping the hat for oddity however, comes the fat many ribbed parasol aping the paper parasol of far away Japan.

..... These silk replicas of Japanese paper originals are the quintessence of quaintness. They are shown entire-ly covered in gay futuristic silk or with a gayly figured centre and a plain silk border. Some are all of one toned silk with an embroidered motif like those found upon a Japan-ese parasol.

..... A flight of yellow swallows across a purple sky or dragon flies flitting over a field of yellow. The Pagoda parasols in black and white or blue and white stripe combinations are losing their novelty through repetition for the last two seasons but the square parasol adds a new odd note this year as does also the transparent parasol of net.

..... adorned with countless ruffles of dainty hues. satin ribbon. Surely these parasols are the oddest things under the sun while the peeled hair of the French roll coiffure continues as the oddest of all things under the hat.

..... The ruff of pleated white tulle that stands out stiffly under the chin and fastens an otherwise perfectly bare throat is certainly odd enough to suit anyone, even the most finicky, and then there's the peasant bodice with its V shaped point in front that is laced up the front like a regular corset.

..... It is when you reach the skirt, however, that oddness fairly runs riot. There is the crinoline skirt, with an apron effect in front and the flippant skirt that is just one ruffle after another.

..... odd that it is positively weird is one with gold braid and tiny gold but-ton running up one side to the calf.

..... The broad thin runs around the leg with a gold tassel right in the front, the whole effect being a simulation of a high colored shoe. Isn't that the limit?

..... Then there are the endless odd varieties of low and high shoes with insets of light leather outlining a tiny pointed tip of black patent kid. The heel and back of a pump of one color and the vamp of black kid with a piping of the color around the top and Oh, all and every combination that human ingenuity can cobble.

..... Verily with such a wide scope of oddness to choose from it does seem queer, now doesn't it, that some women are forced to wear just one earring at a time to attract attention.

..... Just why yellow has always been under a sort of stigma as designating the rotten streak in humanity typifying jealousy and remembrance of ill will or jaundice is hard to account for now that it has been welcomed into the arms of fashion as one of the most charming tints of the season.

..... Sunshine, beaten gold and fields of ripened wheat are only a few of the lovely things it now re-minds us of.

..... Exquisite are the yellow crepe de chine negligees, the puffed willow taffeta and crepe lingerie in maize tints. Beautiful the gowns of shimm-ering yellow satin and the hats and parasols, blouses, stockings, slip-pers and gloves, all in the color of liquid sunshine. It truly is up to all those who have an eye for the beautiful and artistic to forget its jaunty past and with a well-coming smile say "Hello yellow."

..... BRING SUNSHINE TO LIVES OF WOMEN CONVICTS.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Joliet, Ill., March 19.—The debt which society owes to its unfortunate inmates should be repaid by giving them every possible opportunity to learn to live under normal condi-tions. This is the theory of Miss Grace Fuller, superintendent of women at the Illinois state penitentiary at Joliet.

..... Miss Fuller is putting her theory into practice, and with grati-fying results.

..... A group of white clad, smiling women, stood today about their leaders a domestic science classroom. They beat eggs, measured out sugar and did other things all about the room as easily as they worked.

..... These women were prisoners—at the state penitentiary—but they were transformed into new, happy persons by the application of a scheme of revolutionizing prison methods. In this work, Miss Fuller has the co-operation of Warden Allen.

..... Dress making, rug weaving and other domestic activities are included in the new rule of procedure for women in this institution. Everywhere is noticeable a sense of contentment and absence of restraint.

..... "It is to give these women, who did not have adequate opportunities before they came here, an opportunity to qualify for normal so-ciety that we are doing this work," explained Miss Fuller. "Society should feel that it has placed these women here to help them, not to take its revenge on them. This we are trying to do in giving them work which will fit them, as they leave us, for fine, effective living. Their lives have in so many instances been barren of all interests before coming here. We ought to supply that inter-est."

..... Historic Black Forest.

..... The Black forest has a charm that can be found in no other part of the world. The hills and valleys abound in pine woods of so dark a green as to be almost black. And from these the forest takes its name. And these trees do give it such a black appear-ance that it looks forbidding and makes a chill go down one's back. Its hills are as dark as its history.

Glimpses of Married Life

By MISS EVA LORSON

"What have you on hand for this morning?" asked Dick as he rose from the breakfast table.

"Oh, various things. Why?" "I thought if you would have time to attend to it, I'd leave my overcoat and a d have the sleeve lining sewed in. I got all mixed up trying to put it on yesterday, and Miss Randolph said she'd bring a needle and sew it in for me today."

"She is very omniscious, I am sure," blazed Nell. "I guess it's hardly come to a pass where pert girls, who want to get into the limelight, have to do your mending."

"As for this mending late at night," she continued, "it takes you long enough to get to bed as it is. I lie there with the light in my eyes for hours, waiting for you to get your hair in curlers—your face mas-saged."

"Black Morton, you're mistaken!" declared Nell. "I haven't massaged my face for a month. I'll be old and have wrinkles enough to hold a basket and weigh over will you?"

"Surely, you are like cheap turn-ture, always coming apart. I've a notion to retract your ang try to get a more satisfactory article." She laughed both ears as she kissed him goodby.

"Perhaps you may recall that I started to mend it right before last and you insisted on my coming to bed. Nell had produced her work basket and was threading a needle."

"It was bedtime then, ten o'clock is too late to think of beginning a job. It's never too late to mend," laughed Nell, ashamed of the heat she had shown.

"I'd like to express the hope that my socks will be mended when I put them on tomorrow. It's a little early ing out to get the air."

"Richard Norton, I darned all of your socks before I put them in your drawer; what did you got hold of that needed mending?"

"Well, one of the last pair I put on had a little hole in the heel." There was long-suffering patience expressed in his tone.

"As for this mending late at night," she continued, "it takes you long enough to get to bed as it is. I lie there with the light in my eyes for hours, waiting for you to get your hair in curlers—your face mas-saged."

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Now Father Isn't Quite So Sure.

BY F. LEIPER

WOMEN IN VIENNA

Vienna, March 19th: Everybody does their duty for the endangered fatherland. The poor woman on her way to factory contributes her mite to the collection boxes. The rich women open their parlors, bedrooms and kitchens to the wounded officers and soldiers. Not only do the women of Austria, France, England, Germany suffer from war's depredations, but the women in America are every day suffering from the many ills that women are heir to.

The diseases which weaken and prevent women, may in almost all cases be cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures women's weakness.

Every woman who has reason to believe that backache, headache, unnatural pains, low spirits, sleepless nights, irregularities or a catarrhal condition is caused by a derangement of the womanly functions, owes it to herself and dear ones to speedily overcome the trouble before a general breakdown causes permanent prostration.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a temperance remedy that any ailing woman can safely take because it is prepared from roots and herbs with glycerine containing tonic properties and is not a secret remedy because its ingredients are printed on wrapper.

Get Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription today, either in liquid or tablet form, at any dealer in medicine, if you want to better your physical condition surely and speedily. Every ingredient in "Favorite Prescription" is printed along with the directions. If you want a specialist in women's diseases to diagnose your case, consult Dr. Pierce by letter, correspondence private and confidential, address Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

Says No One Need Remain Thin Now

Physician's Advice For Thin, Under-Topped Men and Women.
Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs, who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rub-on ointments, resign themselves to lifelong skininess and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered regenerative force makes fat grow after three successive days. This is also unequalled for removing the want of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable discovery is called Sargol. Sargol, strength-giving, fat-producing element, is acknowledged by the world's best physicians and used by prominent physicians everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A month's systematic use of Sargol should produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying highly concentrated fats to the blood. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fats that thin people need are provided. All leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has given splendid results as a nerve-tonic and vitalizer, it should not be used by nervous people unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh. Advertisement.

Lung Trouble Yielded to This Medicine

If you are suffering with serious lung trouble, it will pay to fully investigate Beckman's Alternative. It is a remedy which has caused many recoveries. The following is a true story:
5222 Girard Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.
"Gentlemen:—In the winter of 1904 I had a severe attack of Grippe, followed by Pneumonia and later on Lung Trouble. In the winter of 1905 I had a cough, night sweats, fever and raised a small, watery-looking stuff, and later I had more hemorrhages, at one time three in three successive days. Three physicians treated me. I was ordered to take cod liver oil, but it did not do me any good. After taking a small quantity I had the first quiet night's sleep for weeks. My improvement was marked from the first. I gained strength and weight and appetite. I never had another hemorrhage and my cough gradually lessened until entirely gone. I am perfectly well."
(Abbreviated.) ANNE F. LOUGHRAN.
Beckman's Alternative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and as a building and lung-affecting and as a harmful or habit-forming drug. It is a substitute for cod liver oil, but it is sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of testimonials.

BLACK IS WHITE

COPYRIGHT 1914 BY GEORGE BARR MCCUTCHEON AND COMPANY

FREDERIC, deceived by his father's sprightly mood, entered rather recklessly into the lively discussion. He seldom took his eyes from the face of his beautiful stepmother, and many of his remarks were uttered sotto voce for her ear alone. Suddenly James Brood called out his name in a sharp, commanding tone. Frederic, at the moment, engaged in a low exchange of words with Yvonne, did not hear him. Brood spoke again, loudly, harshly. There was dead silence at the table.

"We will excuse you, Frederic," said he, a deadly calm in his voice. The puzzled expression in the young man's face slowly gave way to a steady glare of fury. He could not trust himself to speak. "I regret exceedingly that you cannot take wine in moderation. A breath of fresh air will be of benefit to you. You may join us upstairs later on."

"I haven't drunk a full glass of champagne," began the young man in amazed protest.

Brood smiled indulgently, but there was a sinister gleam in his gray eyes. "I think you would better take my advice," he said, levelly.

Frederic went deathly pale. "Very well, sir," he said in a low, suppressed voice. Without another word he got up from the table and walked out of the room.

He spoke the truth later on when he told Yvonne he could not understand. But she understood. She knew that James Brood had endured the situation as long as it was in his power to endure, and she knew that it was her fault entirely that poor Frederic had been exposed to this crowning bit of humiliation.

As she sat in the dim study awaiting her stepson's reappearance with the two old men, her active, far-seeing mind was striving to estimate the cost of that tragic clash. Not the cost to herself or to Frederic, but to James Brood!

The Messrs. Dawes and Riggs, inordinately pleased over their rehabilitation, were barely through delivering themselves of their protestations of undying fealty, when the sound of voices came up from the lower hall. Frederic started to leave the room, not caring to face those who had witnessed his unmerited degradation. Yvonne hurried to his side.

"Where are you going?" she cried, sharply.

He stared at her in wonder. "You cannot expect me to stay here."

"But certainly," she exclaimed. "Listen! I will tell you what to do."

Her voice sank to an imperative whisper. He listened in sheer amazement, his face growing dark with rebellion as she proceeded to unfold her plan for a present victory over his father.

"No, no! I can't do that! Never, Yvonne," he protested.

"For my sake, Freddy. Don't forget that you owe something to me. I command you to do as I tell you. It is the only way. Make haste! Open the window. Get the breath of air he prescribed. And when they are all here, apologize for your condition!"

When Doctor Hodder and Mrs. Gunning entered the room a few minutes later young Brood was standing in the open window, drinking in the cold night air, and she was blithely regaling the blinking old men with an account of her stepson's unhappy efforts to drink all of the wine in sight!

As she told it, it was a most amusing experiment.

James Brood was the last to enter, with Miss Followell. He took in the situation at a glance. Was it relief that sprang into his eyes as he saw the two old men?

Frederic came down from the window, somewhat too swiftly for one who is moved by shame and contrition, and faced the group with a well-assumed look of mortification in his pale, twitching face. He spoke in low, repressed tones, but not once did he permit his gaze to encounter that of his father.

"I'm awfully sorry to have made a nuisance of myself. It does go to my head and I—I dare say the heat of the room helped to do the work. I'm all right now, however. The fresh air did me a lot of good. Hope you'll overlook my foolish attempt to be a devil of a fellow." He hesitated a moment and then went on, more clearly. "I'm all right now, father. It shall not happen again. I can promise you that." A close observer might have seen the muscles of his jaw harden as he uttered the final sentence. He intended that his father should take it as a threat, not as an apology.

Brood was watching him closely, a puzzled expression in his eyes; gradually it developed into something like admiration. In the clamor of voices that ensued the older man detected the presence of an underlying note of censure for his own behavior. For the first time in many years he experienced a feeling of shame.

Someone was speaking at his elbow. Janey Followell, in her young, enthusiastic voice, shrieked something into his ear that caused him to look at her in utter amazement. It was so astounding that he could not believe he had heard right. He mumbled in a questioning tone, "I beg your pardon?" and she repeated her remark.

"How wonderfully like you Frederic is, Mr. Brood." Then she added: "Do you know, I've never noticed it until tonight. It's really remarkable."

"It is a most gratifying discovery," said he, and turned to speak to Mrs. Desmond. He did not take his gaze from Frederic's white, set face, however! And, despite the fact that he knew the girl had uttered an idle commonplace, he was annoyed to find himself studying the features of Matilda's boy with an interest that seemed almost laughable when he considered it later on.

His guests found much to talk about in the room. He was soon being dragged from one object to another and ordered to reveal the history, the use and the nature of countless things that obviously were intended to be just what they seemed; such as rugs, shields, lamps, and so forth. He was ably assisted by Messrs. Riggs and Dawes, who lied prodigiously in a frenzy of rivalry.

"What a perfectly delightful Buddha," cried Miss Janey, stopping in front of the idol. "How perfectly lovely he is—or is it a she, Mr. Brood?"

Frederic joined Lydia at the table. "A delicious scene, wasn't it?" he asked, bitterly, in lowered tones.

Her fingers touched his. "What did he mean, Freddy? Oh, I felt so sorry for you. It was dreadful."

"Don't take it so seriously, Lydia," he said, squeezing her hand gently. Both of them realized that it was the nearest thing to a caress that had passed between them in a fortnight or longer. A wave of shame swept through him. "Dear old girl, my dear old girl," he whispered brokenly.

Her eyes radiated joy, her lips parted in a wild, tremulous smile of surprise, and a soft sigh escaped them. "My dear, dear boy," she murmured, and was happier than she had been in weeks.

"See here, old chap," said one of the middle-aged gentlemen, again consulting his watch as he loudly addressed his host, "can't you hurry this performance of yours along a bit? It is after ten, you know."

"I will summon the magician," said Brood. "Be prepared, ladies and gentlemen, to meet the devil. Ranjab is the prince of darkness."

He lifted his hand to strike the gong that stood near the edge of the table.

Involuntarily four pairs of eyes fastened their gaze upon the door to the Hindu's closet. Three mellow, softly reverberating "booms" filled the room. Almost instantly the voice of the Hindu was heard.

"Al-o, sahib!"

He came swiftly into the room from the hall, and not from his closet. The look of relief in Yvonne's eyes was short-lived. She saw amazement in the faces of the two old men—and knew!

"After we have had the feast of magic," Brood was saying, "Miss Desmond will read to you, ladies and gentlemen, that chapter of our journal."

"My Gawd!" groaned both of the middle-aged gentlemen, looking at their watches.

"—relating to—"

"You'll have to excuse me, Brood, really, you know. Important engagement tomorrow."

"Sit down, Cruger," exclaimed Hodder. "The lady won't miss you."

"—relating to our first encounter with the great and only Ranjab," pursued Brood, oracularly. "We found him in a little village far up in the mountains. He was under sentence of death for murder. By the way, Yvonne, the kris you have in your hand is the very weapon the good fellow used in the commission of his crime. He was in prison and was to die within a fortnight after our arrival in the town. I heard of his unhappy plight and all that had led up to it. His case interested me tremendously. One night, a week before the proposed execution, my friends and I stormed the little prison and rescued him. We were just getting over the cholera and needed excitement. That was fifteen years ago. He has been my trusted body servant ever since. I am sure you will be interested in what I have written about that thrilling adventure."

Yvonne had dropped the ugly knife upon the table as if it were a thing that scorched her fingers.

"Did he—really kill a man?" whispered Miss Janey, with horror in her eyes.

"He killed a woman. His wife, Miss Janey. She had been faithless, you see. He cut her heart out. And now, Ranjab, are you ready?"

"The Hindu salaamed. 'Ranjab is always ready, sahib,' said he.

CHAPTER IX.

The Sorceress.

The next day, after a sleepless night, Frederic announced to his stepmother that he could no longer remain under his father's roof. He would find something to do in order to support himself. It was impossible to go on pretending that he loved or respected his father, and the sooner the farce was ended the better it would be for both of them.

She, too, had passed a restless night, a night filled with waking dreams as well as those which came in sleep. There was always an ugly, wriggly kris in those dreams of hers, and a any and every corn or callus without fail, without fussing with thick bandages, toe harnesses, corn-swalling salves, irritating ointments. It's applied in 2 seconds—this, that—2 drops, the work is done. The corn shrivels up, your corn agony ends. The corn leaves forever! All the itching, the pains that start you, your heart's core, the crucifixion of having to wear shoes over screaming corns, the danger of blood poison from making them bleed by using knives, razors and scissors—are gone at last! "GETS-IT" is the new way for corns, calluses, warts and bunions. It for corns, calluses, warts and bunions. "GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere. 2¢ bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

He was getting his few things together in his room.

His hand that was forever fascinating her with its uncanny deftness. Twice in the night she had clutched her husband's shoulder in the terror of a dream, and he had soothed her with the comfort of his strong arms. She was like a little child "afraid of the dark."

Her influence alone prevented the young man from carrying out his threat. At first he was as firm as a rock in his determination. He was getting his few possessions together in his room when she tapped on his door.

After a while he abandoned the task and followed her rather dazedly to the boudoir, promising to listen to reason. For an hour she argued and pleaded with him, and in the end he agreed to give up what she was pleased to call his preposterous plan.

"Now, that being settled," she said, with a sigh of relief, "let us go and talk it all over with Lydia."

He started guiltily. "I'd—rather not, Yvonne," he said. "There's no use worrying her with the thing now. As a matter of fact, I'd prefer that she—well, somehow I don't like the idea of explaining matters to her."

She was watching him narrowly. "It has seemed to me of late, Frederic, that you and Lydia are not quite so—what shall I say?—so enamored of each other. What has happened?" she laughed so innocently, so naively, that he looked at her in astonishment. "I am sure you fairly live at her house. You are there nearly every day, and yet—well, I can feel rather than see the change in both of you. I hope—"

"I've been behaving like an infernal sneak, Yvonne," cried he, conscience-stricken. "She's the finest, noblest girl in all this world, and I've been treating her shamefully."

"Dear me! In what way, may I inquire?"

"Why we used to—oh, but why go into all that? It would only amuse you. You'd laugh at us for silly fools. But I can't help saying this much—she doesn't deserve to be treated as I'm treating her now, Yvonne. It's hurting her dreadfully and—"

Dinner Stories

A tourist, traveling in the Rocky Mountains, was introduced to an old hunter who claims to have killed no fewer than four hundred bears.

"Bill," said the introducer, "this feller wants to hear some natter escapes you've had from bears."

The old man, rubbing his eyes, looked the stranger over, and said:

"Young man, if there's been any natter escapes, the bears had 'em."

The old gentleman beamed upon the little boy who stood on the hill one night at twilight, a happy, contented smile on his lips.

"I am very pleased to see you watching the beautiful red glow of the setting sun, my little man," he said, patting the youngster's back. "Do you watch it every night?"

"Oh, no, sir," he said gleefully. "That's not the sun setting. That's our school burning down."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Mrs. Brown was in the kitchen helping Nora, the cook, prepare supper.

"It's an old saying," she said to Nora, "that too many cooks spoil the broth. What do you think?"

"Sure, ma'am," Nora replied, "there's nothing to worry about. There's only one cook here."

Several members of a woman's club were chatting with a little daughter of their hostess.

"Suppose you are a great help to your mamma," said one.

"Oh, yes," replied the little miss, "and so is Ethel; but it is my turn to count the spoons today after the company is gone."

Correcting Childish Defect.

Most children at some time or other will contort their faces or cross their eyes. If this habit is allowed, frowns become permanent and eyes glaze. It is a good thing to let a child see himself when pulling his face. It is a good plan to appeal to a child's pride, as proper pride is an excellent quality.

Stomach Troubles Due to Acidity

SO SAYS EMINENT SPECIALIST.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind, and stomach-ache are in reality due to acidity of the stomach.

The food contents in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acids, wind, indigestion, and causes that distressing feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach.

The trouble lies entirely in the fermenting food. Such fermentation is unnatural, and acid formation is not only unnatural, but may involve most serious consequences if not corrected.

To one consequence of the food is the contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid and render it bland and harmless, a powerful antacid, known as Sargol, is a most effective remedy.

PROPOSE TO HOLD INTERNATIONAL MEET AT HAGUE FOR WOMEN

London, March 18.—The proposal of a committee of Dutch women to hold a women's international congress at the Hague in April has met the undivided support of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies, the non-militarist body. In their appeal, the women of Holland said: "We feel strongly that at a time when there is so much hatred among nations, we women must show that we can retain our solidarity and that we are able to maintain a mutual friendship." Women from every country, regardless of nationality, are asked to attend the Hague congress. "The peace of the nations must not be a flabby thing, like a flabby angel on a dump cloud," declared Miss Bondfield, speaking for the resolution to support the congress. She said the future peace of Europe would largely depend on the international relations of its women.

WEST TELLS OF MORE THINGS FOR MARCH

Correspondent Urges Farmers to do All Little Odd Jobs Before Strenuous Season.

Winter still lingers with us, but the lengthening days and milder temperature gives opportunity for outdoor work, even the one cannot work the land, which is the opportunity for pruning fruit trees. It should be done before growth starts, for while trees may be pruned in the fall or late summer, there is less danger of the wound drying out and cracking if done now. Then, too, there are not so many other things that can be done now, and the wise manager plans to do all the can during stock times. Why trees should be pruned is best answered by quoting from popular fruit growing by Samuel B. Green, professor of Horticulture and Forestry in the University of Minnesota:

1. To remove dead and diseased wood. Nearly all trees have dead and diseased limbs sometime during the year, which must be removed to keep the tree healthy.
2. To allow sunlight and air to get into the branches and aid in keeping the tree healthy. If the branches grow thick, the fruit in the tree will not color up as it should.
3. To aid in the production of fruit. Too much wood will form a tree, this causing the tree to bear too heavily and consequently produce small, poorly-colored fruit.
4. To secure shape and size that will enable pruning and picking to be easily and economically done.
5. To protect the tree from injuries, resulting from climatic conditions, as sun-scald, sleet storms, etc.
6. To rebuild and give more vigor to weak trees or weak limbs. It is often best to replace trees of this sort with new ones.
7. To remove bruised or injured branches or roots.
8. To restore the balance between the roots and the top in the case of settings out trees.

The cuts made in pruning should be made with sharp tools and should be close to the shoulder. Stubs should never be left, as they are likely to cause decay. If a large limb is to be taken it should be covered up from the bottom for a short distance and then from the top, preventing the limbs splitting off and causing trouble. All wounds should be covered with grafting wax or thick white bed paint. This applies to wounds over an inch in diameter. Only the wounded part should be painted, and if there are many wounds it will be found that the paint will be less trouble and less expense than the grafting wax.

Pruning the young tree is a different proposition than pruning the old trees. The object of pruning the young tree is to give proper shape to the head. The one wielding the tools should have a clear idea of what he wishes to accomplish in this and work to the model. He should work to have a mature tree that may be easily sprayed and cultivated and not subject to sun-scald.

The work with old trees will consist mostly in removing diseased branches, removing water sprouts and if necessary, cutting out limbs to let in sunshine. How much will be required will depend on whether the trees have been properly pruned from year to year or whether they have been neglected. If neglected for a long time it is not best to cut back severely for severe pruning is likely to induce so vigorous a growth that the second state of the tree is worse than the first. It is best to proceed gradually, cutting away diseased limbs and water sprouts and leave the pruning of the larger interfering limbs until another year.

FINISH REMODELING AT THE GRAND HOTEL

New Main Lobby Has Many Features.—Build Private Ordinary to Accommodate Fifty People.

With the remodeling completed at the Grand Hotel, Janesville is represented with one of the best equipped hotels in this section of the state. The main lobby, with its colonial fireplace, its tapestry and new carpeting on the floor and the tiffany effect over the ceiling, brings out an appearance that is pleasing in every detail. There are indirect lights drop from the ceiling and the lobby is draped with lambrequin curtains. The stairway has been moved to the rear of the clerk's desk, so that guests may pass to the dining hall without entering the lobby. French lights stand at the dining hall entrance.

One of the improved features is the new addition of the private ordinary, which will accommodate fifty people. The twenty-two rooms have been equipped with running hot water and cold water. The string of 150 lights on the exterior of the building is another effective feature. All of the above changes, the Grand represents one of the best American plan hotels in this vicinity. Mrs. Anna McNeil is proprietor and it has been under her special direction the alterations have been made.

A year ago he was in British and German South Africa familiar with the problems of African colonization. He has published several volumes on both of these subjects.

Standard Remedy For Many Homes

Indigestion and constipation are two conditions closely related and the cause of much physical suffering.

The tendency to indulge one's appetite is general, so that most people suffer at some time or another from rebellion of the overtaxed organs of digestion and elimination. A simple, pleasantly effective remedy that will quickly relieve the congestion of poisonous waste and restore regularity, is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a mild, pleasant laxative- tonic and digestant, absolutely free from opiates or narcotic drugs and has been the standard household remedy in countless homes for many years. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

NEW YORK BUILDING AT FRISCO DEDICATED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] San Francisco, March 19.—The New York building at the Panama-Pacific Exposition was dedicated today with elaborate ceremonies attended by the governor of California, the mayor of San Francisco and the high dignitaries of the Exposition company and more than a score of prominent New Yorkers.

Seth Low, president of the National Civic Federation, represented Governor Whitman at the exercises and was the speaker of the day. He was accompanied to San Francisco by Adm. Gen. Stoenbury, of the New York National Guard, as aide.

Nearly all of the 18 commissioners from the state of New York were present when the ceremonies opened. Norman E. Mack, Buffalo, chairman of the New York State commission, presided. He spoke briefly and introduced President Charles C. Moore, of the Exposition Co., who formerly presented to the exposition commission the plaque showing their participation in the big fair.

He also voiced the thanks of the exposition management for the Empire State support. Mayor Ralph of San Francisco and Governor Johnson of California then spoke briefly, and Wm. B. Lamar, chairman of the federal commission to the fair.

The ceremonies took place in front of the New York building, one of the handsomest on the grounds.

Governor Whitman of New York and his staff are expected to visit the Exposition in May.

ENGLISH TAKE MEANS TO PROVIDE TUBS FOR "TOMMY ATKINS"

(Correspondence Associated Press) London, March 18.—The thought of the British soldier going unattended to the British public is so much that "Tubs for Tommies" is now the cry of a group of patriots, which has raised a fund sufficient to provide 30 tubs with 12 stoves and plenty of soap and towels. Five of the tubs and two stoves were recently sent to Soissons by motor car, and within seven hours 100 men had enjoyed the delights of a hot bath.

The bathing scheme was initiated by Lady Leithbridge, Mrs. M. James Burns, and Allen H. P. Stoneham. It is warmly endorsed by the medical officers, who say that cleanliness will do much to prevent the infection of wounds.

Another movement in the interest of cleanliness in which the committee is engaged in an emergency disinfecting. The type selected costs $250 and disinfected 250 suits of clothing a day.

Question.—How many days should eggs be in an incubator before candling?
Answer.—The eggs may be tested the seventh and again the twelfth day to remove unfertile eggs and dead germs.

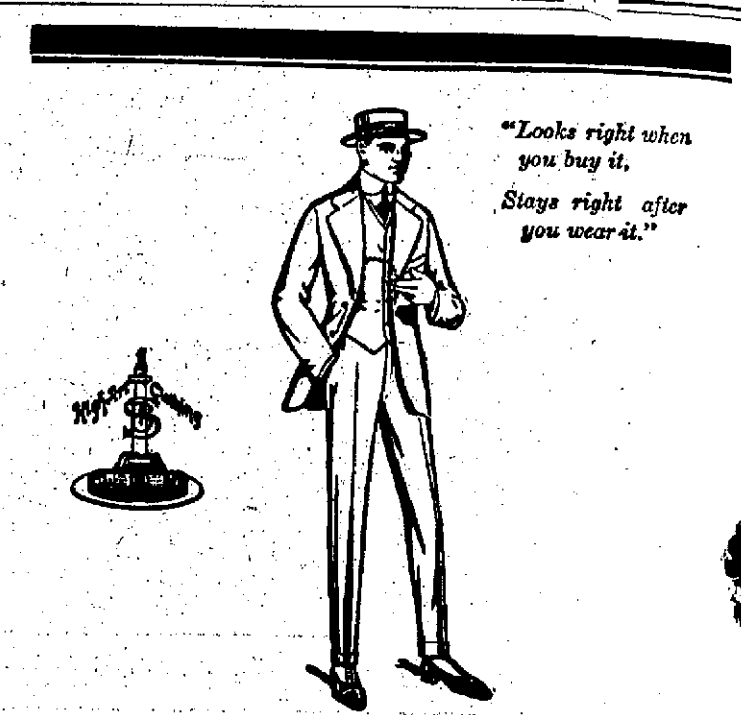

Question.—Can a cow be fed so as to increase the richness of her milk?
Answer.—In order to increase the richness of a cow's milk, or in other words the percentage of butter fat, the cow must be fed on a rich ration. Feeding will not do it. The ability to produce rich milk is bred in the cow, and cannot be fed in.

Question.—How is kerosene emulsion made?
Answer.—Kerosene emulsion is made as follows: Kerosene, 2 gallons. Rain water, 1 gallon. Soap, 1/2 lb.

Dissolve soap in water by boiling. While hot, but after removing from the fire, turn in the kerosene and churn briskly for five minutes with spray pump. Dilute before using with six times quantity of water.

This makes a large quantity. A smaller amount may be made by using the same proportions. It will be noted that eight ounces of soap are used to two gallons of kerosene, with half a gallon of water. It is necessary to use a small amount of soap in making the emulsion.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

"Omar, The Tentmaker" Here Next Week.

Guy Bates Post in "Omar, the Tentmaker," Richard Walton Tully's spectacular Persian romance, is scheduled to appear at the Myers Theatre for one night, Monday, March 22nd. This is the third dramatic success by Mr. Tully, whose previous plays, "The Bird of Paradise" and "The Rose of the Rancho" are as pleasurable recreation for all theatregoers. In his latest work, which was the reigning dramatic success of New York last season, Mr. Tully has eclipsed all his previous endeavors, and "Omar, the Tentmaker" is far and away the greatest romantic success that our stage has seen in several seasons. In the title role, Mr. Post has won for himself the conspicuous laurels that have before befallen to him during his career, and his interpretation of the beloved Persian Post, Omar Khayram, is unquestionably the finest romantic impersonation since the passing of the late Richard Mansfield.

Mr. Tully has based his play upon the life, times and Kubaiva of Omar Khayyam, the merry-souled poet of the eleventh century, whose enchanting quatrains, as translated into English verse by Edward Fitz Gerald, are affectionately known wherever the English language is spoken. Especial emphasis was laid by Mr. Tully upon the engrossing love-life of Omar, and the play contains some of the most attractive scenes witnessed in a number of seasons. Briefly, the play relates how the young and impulsive Omar, singer of sweet songs and lover of red wines, wooed and won the beautiful Shiraz in her father's rose-bowered garden; how the two were ruthlessly separated for many years; how they remained faithful to each other through all the storms and stress that came to the poet and his long lost Shiraz; how Omar, reared and loved the Little Shiraz, and how he learned at last that the Little Shiraz was also his own daughter, and how in the end peace and happiness at last came to the poet and his long lost Shiraz. The play bristles with thrilling action followed in fast succession.

LADIES' LOOK YOUNG,
DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

SIXTEEN INCH GUNS WILL BE TRIED ON TWO NEW WARSHIPS

New Dreadnaughts That Have Been Provided for by Congress Will Carry World's Heaviest Guns.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 18.—The two battleships provided for in the current naval bill may be armed with 16-inch rifles, the heaviest naval guns ever designated.

While tentative plans for the new ships contemplate vessels similar in general design to the 32,000-ton giants of the California class now under construction, details of armament and engine equipment are being given unusual attention by navy designers and the results obtained from the 16-inch main batteries of the newest British and German battleships are closely watched.

Subjected to Test. Already the new 16-inch navy gun has been subjected to tests at the Indian Head proving ground and while details of construction and performance are closely guarded, it is known that the gigantic weapon has given proof of its efficiency which delighted navy ordinance experts. The gun was built at the American naval gun factory, and has been undergoing tests for several months.

Some idea of the probable size of the new American gun is gathered from the fact that each of the eight 16-inch guns of the British battleship Queen Elizabeth weighs 98 tons while similar rifles designed in the Krupp works for German battleships laid down this year each weigh more than 82 tons. The 14-inch rifles of the battleships New York and Oregon for the five new American dreadnaughts now under construction, weigh 63.3 tons each and it is certain that the new 16-inch gun weighs more than 100 tons without its mounting.

Change Standard.

Krupp engineers have designated a 16-inch gun which fires a projectile weighing 3,028 pounds against the 1,675 pound projectile hurled by the 15-inch rifles adopted for the German navy and the 1,720 pound projectiles poured into Turkish fortresses by the Dardanelles by the British battleship Queen Elizabeth. The new German or British vessels of the first line carry any weapon exactly similar to the American 14-inch gun, a jump having been made last year from the standard 12-inch rifle to the 15-inch type.

The New York, Texas, Nevada and Oklahoma each carry ten 14-inch guns while the Pennsylvania, California, Idaho and Mississippi each will carry twelve, place three to a turret. These weapons, throw projectiles weighing 1,400 pounds as is the case with the 14-inch standard 12-inch rifle to the 15-inch type.

With the increase in size, the life of the gun is shortened by erosion due to the heat generated by the explosion of the huge charge of powder necessary to hurl nearly a ton of metal fifteen miles that is said to be the range of the American 16-inch weapon. The rifling of the gun burns out under the blast. Drops of melted steel are visible in the bore after each shot and it is said that the life of the Queen Elizabeth's 15-inch weapons is less than 100 shots each. After that the gun is so inaccurate as to be virtually useless.

Short Lived.

Navy gun designers have overcome that obstacle somewhat, it is said, with the new American 16-inch gun, but the life of the gun is still far below that of the 14-inch standard.

The Krupp works before the outbreak of the present war, announced that a process of steel and powder manufacture had been evolved that decreased erosion, but the factory is understood to have refused to contract to supply a large number of great guns under guarantee of 250 rounds accuracy in life.

In placing aboard the Queen Elizabeth the 15-inch weapon designed for her class, British navy officials are understood to have depended upon a cheap process for relining, perfected by their engineers, to offset the short life of the gun. It is that be true it is probable the Queen Elizabeth soon may be compelled to return to England and have new guns placed aboard if the strenuous pounding at the Dardanelles exhausts her main battery.

It has been suggested that 16-inch guns could be substituted for the 14-inch guns of the American battleships now under construction, placing them two to a turret instead of three and giving the ships eight guns each instead of twelve. Navy officers say, however, that the cost of such an alteration would be very great if it could be made at all. They also hold that the American 14-inch gun is the equal of the British or German 15-inch for all practical purposes.

Has Equal Range.

With any target in plain view, it is said, the American gun has equal range and nearly equal penetration, the difference being more than counterbalanced by the larger number of guns carried. Thus, in action against such a ship as the Queen Elizabeth shared in the Dardanelles, have twelve 14-inch guns against eight 15-inch and would have 50 percent greater opportunity for scoring hits. For indirect fire, such as the work in which the Queen Elizabeth share at the Dardanelles, the 15-inch gun's greater range would be important, but it is not believed it would be a factor in a purely naval battle.

During the present war, big gun naval engagements have been fought at a range of from seven to ten miles, effective distance for either 12 or 14 inch guns.

As a matter of fact it has been pointed out that the German 8-inch guns outranged larger British guns because of the higher gun elevation provided by German designers. German naval guns, as a rule, have a maximum elevation of 30 degrees against 15 degrees aboard British and American ships. That is another problem upon which American designers are concentrating attention in planning new ships.

RICHARD H. JONES
WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Janesville Boy Carries Off Honors in Handball Singles at University Tournament.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 18.—Richard H. Jones of Janesville, an electrical engineer at the University of Wisconsin, was winner in the singles at the annual handball tournament which has been in progress at the University of Wisconsin during the past winter. In winning the championship Jones met and defeated all of the handball experts who were entered in the tournament. His final victory was registered over J. O'Connor of Milwaukee by the score of 2 to 0. As a result of his victory he has been awarded a Numerical Jersey by the athletic board of the University of Wisconsin. Jones has participated in all the handball tournaments held here since entering college, but this is the first time he has been successful in winning the championship.

WHICH DO YOU WANT

Bill Which Would Make a Discrimination Between Drinks Brings Out a Variety of Comment.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 18.—The question of submitting to a vote of the people the two questions of the sale of beer or the sale of whiskey in the state brought forth a variety of comment before the assembly committee on excise at noon yesterday afternoon. Assemblyman Meyer, the author of the bill, said that saloonmen would be glad to be relieved of the sale of whiskey. W. H. Austin, representing the Wisconsin brewers, said that there was a growing sentiment in this country in favor of the separation of the two. He said he was not in favor of prohibitory laws, but did favor legislation that would aid the people to protect themselves. Dr. W. F. Lorenz, who has been doing investigative work for the United States government and is now working at the pathological department of the Mendota hospital, said that in a large number of insane cases he had examined both in New York and Wisconsin he had yet to find a case of insanity caused by the drinking of beer. He believed it was all due to the excessive use of spirituous liquors. He said that his experience would justify the separation of the two questions proposed in the bill. Former Senator Howard Teasdale thought he found a joker in the bill, which would put the entire vote of the people under the vote of local communities for a dry territory. Assemblyman J. Jensen appeared in favor of his bill for county option. He said that the county as a unit had to bear the proportional expense. He believed county option would be more just than local option.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat Less Meat if you Feel Backache or have Bladder Trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overloads the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acid waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush out the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days; your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

ARGUMENTS ADVANCED ON EIGHT HOUR LABOR
BILL BEFORE COMMITTEE

Madison, Wis., March 18.—An eight hour day for all employees in the state of Wisconsin was advocated before the assembly committee on labor yesterday afternoon by Assemblyman Metcalfe, Milwaukee. He claimed that, regardless of the fight which employers were making against the eight hour law, it will sometime be universal. He said it was needed to give working people an opportunity to think. He insisted that the workingman has degenerated to a machine devoted to many hours of labor and few hours of sleep. Peter F. Lough, city clerk of Milwaukee, asked that from the bill because it would require three shifts and increase the payroll from $700,000 to $1,700,000 annually. Attorney H. W. Jackson, of Madison, representing the Pullman company, said it would create a great hardship if common carriers were not exempted. Chester D. Barnes, Kenosha, said there was no universal call for an eight hour day applying to all. He said it would place Wisconsin manufacturers at a great disadvantage in the field of competition.

SPORTS

FED'S YOUNGSTERS SHOW MUCH CLASS AT SPRING CAMPS

Recruits From College and Semi-Pro Clubs are Big Factors With Several Outlaw Teams.

New York, March 19.—Training camp reports from southern fields where Federal leaguers are speeding up for the opening championship games on April 10, contain reference to players whose names indicate that the scouts and managers in the independent circuit have harvested many prizes from the minor leagues and college ranks.

The pennant winning Indianapolis club has half a dozen youngsters in camp at Valdosta, Ga., who have been setting a fast pace for Bonnie Kauff, Fred Falkenberg, and others whose deeds assure them permanent berths. John Lawrence Strands, a Chicago youth who was with Worcester in the New England league last season, is one of the Indianapolis recruits. He has played third base and the outfield in four seasons in a professional. The most striking fact of Strands' career is that in three seasons with the Lynn, Mass., team the youngster never missed a single inning or a game at bat. Last season with Lynn and Worcester he batted .340 and was third among the New England league swatsmen.

Two Whitehouses. Gilbert Whitehouse, once with the Boston Nationals as a catcher, went to the Indianapolis Reds as an outfielder. He is 21 years old and was second in the New England league last season as a batsman, amassing an average of .340, a percentage point below that of the league leader, Charlie Shorten, now a recruit with the Boston Americans. Another player of the same name is with the Federal league champions as a pitcher. He is Charles Evis Whitehouse of Mattson, Ill., who is 20 years old and six feet tall. Whitehouse has been one of whose most notable feat was that of winning three games in four days while in the Illinois-Missouri league, and being named in the fourth contest by a score of 2-0.

Emil Huhn, who was with the Seattle, Wash., club last season as a first baseman and catcher, is one of the Indianapolis recruits. He is a training period. Huhn played professionally around Indianapolis before going out professionally four years ago, at the age of 18. Huhn is a right-handed batter, and clubbed at a .295 clip in 139 games last season. Fred Trautman of Bucyrus, O., a right-handed pitcher, is another of Brooklyn Nationals in the Wisconsin league last year. In addition to winning almost two-thirds of the games he figured in as pitcher, Trautman showed skill as a batsman, finishing with an average of .340. He is 23 years old, stands six feet in height, and weighs 181 pounds. Trautman's twenty-second birthday will be celebrated soon.

Tinker Developing Successor. Joe Tinker, Chicago Cubs' star, runnersup in the pennant race of 1914, have added some sprightly lads, several of them as a result of Tinker's occasional jaunts into the minor and college fields last season. One of the recruits, Jimmy Smith, has shown so well at shortstop in practice at Shreveport, La., that Tinker has considered shifting him to second in order to permit the 19-year-old infielder to play regularly in his accustomed position.

Two men who are doing good work in their efforts to land a permanent berth in the big leagues are "Silk" Kravannah and Leslie Magee. A recruit catcher of class is Bill Fisher. Smith is a Pittsburgh boy and played with Duquesne University last season. He is a splendid fielder and record as an all-around athlete, was the best base runner on his team.

Bill McGowan, another former Duquesne University player, was rounded up by Tinker. He will be 19 years old until next month. He played semi-professionally with Houtzdale, Pa., at second base. Speed is a strong asset in the collections recruited by the Whales. McGowan, a right-handed hitting and throwing outfielder, has had only semi-pro experience in Cincinnati and in 23 years old. Outfielders Zwilling, Flack and Jackson in 1914. McGowan is listed for utility work with an occasional pinch-hitting turn, a branch in which the youngster has shown great promise. Guy Beane, semi-pro pitcher from Princeton, Ill., is now a Whale and showing finely.

Baltimore Has Good Outfielder. Baltimore has a good outfielder, accepting a tallman to ward off the season to players, has balanced its array with a seasoned pitcher in Chief Bender. A dependable backstop, to aid in the pennant hunt. Of the unknowns now at Fayetteville, N. C., John C. McCandless of Oakmont, Pa., is attracting the attention of Manager Otto Knabe. McCandless had a few weeks trial with the Terrapins last fall as a spare outfielder, after experience with the Pittsburgh collegians. He is a 6-footer and 21 years old.

Another youth who has shown well in practice is James P. Conley, also a Pennsylvanian. Conley is 20 years old, and a right-handed pitcher. He passed up a chance for a trial with the Athletics in order to play under Knabe in Baltimore last season where he developed so rapidly that there is a chance for him to be rated as a regular with Bender, Suggs, Quinn, Bailey and Wilhelm.

Buffalo Banks in Ehmk. One of the most recent additions to the Buffalo club, which finished just behind Baltimore last season and acquired a pennant appetite by its first division experience, is Howard Ehmk. A youthful pitcher who was sought by Clark Griffith and other leaders in organized baseball. Ehmk in 1914, his first year out, won eight straight games at the start for Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast league. He is a native of Silver Creek, N. Y., and pitched for the high school team there until after the season of 1913. Last year he was at Glendale Union school, in California, until his work attracted Coast league scouts. Ehmk is a right-hander, 20 years old and is 6 feet 4 inches tall. Ehmk has arranged for a special course at Brown University after playing season in practice at Athens, Ga. Larry Schall, manager of the Buffalo, has been trying to curb the elongated hurler's tendency to use speed with reckless regard for the future. Russell Ford has taken Ehmk in charge, and the star of the Buffalo's staff is expected to be a sensation this season.

GIANTS AND BRAVES WILL HAVE AN EDGE

Two Teams Appear to be The Class of the League and Early Dope Predicts a Merry War.

(By Hal Sheridan.) New York, March 19.—More and more as the opening day draws near, does it appear as though the Giants and Braves were going to stage a merry little war all by themselves for the National League pennant. All the season is in the hands of the league and from this angle there doesn't seem to be a team in the Tenor circuit that has even a chance to win.

Critics who weeks ago were howling that McGraw didn't have a pitching staff are strangely silent now. Critics who at the close of the last season were howling that his infield was short to pieces craved into their holes when the Little Napoleon went out and grabbed Honus Lobert. They barrowed still deeper. McGraw went out and grabbed himself, Pei Peritt.

Mathewson, Tesreau, Marquard, Peritt, Chalmers, Fromme—how does it look? Schump, Tyler, James, Hess, Davis, Crutcher—how does it look? If there are any of the other six teams in the league boasting such aggregations they have yet to bare their claws.

Getting down to hair line distinctions—on paper—the Giants even seem to have the edge on the hated Bostonians. Comparison however, are made in the field, and the Giants are clearly last October when the dopesters began comparing Schmidt to McInnis, Deal to Baker, and Gowdy to Schlang.

Schmidt, Evers, Maranville and Smith, against Merkle, Doyle, Metcalf and Lobert Magee, Connolly and Moran against any three of the following—Robertson, Snodgrass, Thorpe, Burns or Murray. Gowdy and Whaling against McLean, Meyers and Smith.

If the foregoing battle fronts don't offer pre-season prospects of the hottest little tussles in the history of the grand old game, then all done is useless, and the dopesters should be sent to Belgium.

The weakness of the Giants last year was attributed to lack of another good pitcher and a weak infield at third. Both have been killed—and most ably. Weakness of the Braves—if there are any—was in their hitting. Sherman, Magee, Slugg, and other good players were added.

Now, if the avul chorus will just join in, on "Just Before the Battle Other," we'll let out bets on the Giants and Braves. Against the field stock from April to October.

Sometimes ago it was announced that Pat Moran of the Phillies, would give a Cuban named Ramiro Slegle a trial. Now comes the report that Clark Griffith of Washington also will give him a trial. It is possible that Ramiro is going to divide himself into two parts. He is touted as a wonderful performer. However, the records show that he had minor league trial some years ago and caused no sensation.

JANESVILLE COMES HOME WITH SHIELD

TAKE TITLE GAME FROM NEILLSVILLE 23 TO 11 WITH SUBS IN.

WIN THREE BATTLES

Stewart Stars Last Night With 7 Goals—Hartland Forfeited to Stoughton in Third Place Game.

For the fourth consecutive basketball season, the Janesville high school basketball team has won a tournament trophy for the blue and white. A beautiful shield is the new addition to the trophy case at the school building, this prize going to the winners last night in the championship contest of the Milton tournament, when Neillsville proved unequal to the task of defeating Janesville, the final score standing 23 to 11.

Along with this shield, each Janesville player was presented with a gold watch fob, similar to the ones given at the state meet, only with different lettering engraved upon them. The shield and individual prizes were awarded last evening at a banquet held in the S. D. B. church immediately following the contest, when the eight teams were present.

Janesville won from Stoughton yesterday afternoon in the best contest of the meet, by a score of 23 to 13, and won the right to meet Neillsville last night for the title. Neillsville won from Hartland 17 to 8 in the afternoon, Stoughton and Hartland were left to battle for third place last evening, but owing to the fact that Hartland had two men on the sick list, they forfeited to Stoughton 2 to 0.

Janesville takes the credit for having by far the best team in the tournament. The players were never out of the game, and they were never out of the game. They were never out of the game.

Stewart fouled shortly after the game started and Tragedorf scored. Neillsville forced Janesville for three minutes and Weirick fouled. The cleared the rim for a neat goal. Stewart and Weirick followed with two, Dearborn pushed. Tragedorf failed to count another free throw during the game. Waterpool counted a goal from near the bucket. Weirick was playing a fumbling game, but was suffering from a wrenched back.

Stewart proved the man of the hour, at was the best free man. Janesville led at half-time 15 to 3, Rau being the only man showing signs of being "all in."

The second half was slower than the first. Janesville only playing a fair game. Kalvelage, Jones and Lee substituted for Stickney, Weirick and Rau in the middle of the half. Waterpool, for the losers, proved a star in this half by gathering together four goals. Dearborn played his usual good floor and guarding game, holding his man scoreless.

Summary of the championship game follows: Janesville—Weirick and Kalvelage, 11; Capt. Stickney and Stewart, 10; Rau and Jones, 2; Stewart and Lee, 1; Dearborn, 1. Neillsville—Tragedorf, 11; Waterpool, 1; Stoffel, 1; Gerhardt, 1; Haugen and Stocum, 1; Weirick, 1; Field Goals—Stewart 7, Stickney 8, Rau 2, Weirick 1, Waterpool 5. Free Throws—Stickney, 2 out of 3 trials; Tragedorf, 1 out of 3 trials. Time of Halves—20 minutes.

Referee—Davis, Milton College. Scorer—Thorngate, Milton College. Janesville, 23; Stoughton, 13. Janesville won from Stoughton by a better score yesterday afternoon than they beat the Stoughton team played a brilliant game for his team, as did Rau and Stewart. Kalvelage substituted for Stickney in the last five minutes of the game. Janesville—Weirick, 11; Capt. Stickney and Kalvelage, 11; Rau, 2; Stewart, 1; Dearborn, 1; Lee and Jones, 1. Stoughton—Olson, 11; Sullivan, 11; Jerder, 1; Chipman, 1; Hanson, 1; Overland and Sund, 1. Field Goals—Stewart 7, Rau 4, Stickney 3, Jerder 2, Olson 1, Sullivan 2. Free Throws—Stickney, 5 out of 5 trials; Jerder, 3 out of 5 trials; Sullivan missed one trial.

Referee—Davis. Hartland, 8; Neillsville, 17. Hartland and Neillsville played a fast game in the afternoon, the latter winning 17 to 8. Stoffel for the winners was the star. The summary: Hartland—H. Gerbenky and Connolly, 11; Murphy, 11; Jungbluth, 11; Polaski, 11; Gerbenky, 11; Waterpool, 11; Stoffel, 11; Gerhardt, 11; Gust, 11; Haugen and Stocum, 11. Field Goals—Murphy 1, Jungbluth 2, Tragedorf 2, Waterpool 1, Stoffel 4. Free Throws—H. Gerbenky, 2 out of 4 trials; R. Gerbenky missed 3 trials; Tragedorf, 2 out of 3 trials; Waterpool, 1 out of 7 trials. Referee—Louis.

Tourney Notes. The crowd that packed the gymnasium last night numbered in the neighborhood of 700. Janesville sent over 250 students, alumni and others. No seats were left after seven o'clock. It is expected Janesville and Beloit schools will have at least six hundred followers Saturday night at the game, which will be about evenly divided. With Milton turning out, it is feared that the gymnasium will not hold the large numbers.

Every Janesville player showed skill in the tourney. Dearborn and Stewart make up a marvellous stopper, anything and everything. Beloit will have their hands full on Saturday night getting past these men. Rau fouled but twice during the meet.

Janesville's cheer leader failed to put in an appearance, and Williams of Edgerton entertained the crowd along with the Milton band during the intermissions.

Kau is an all-around center. His basket shooting and floor work are both strong points in him. Captain Stickney was not forced to play hard, and consequently did not show the class that is marking him later.

He was relieved in every game. Weirick starred in the first game, scoring eight times, but was watched close in the last two conflicts. The subs gave the team a marvellous rest.

Hurley, formerly a Milton College student, and a close observer of the game, will pick the only two official all-tournament teams. His selections will be published when received.

STICKNEY AND STEWART GIVEN PLACES ON FIRST ALL-TOURNAMENT QUINT.

Stickney, right forward and Stewart, left guard on the high school team were given places on the all-tournament team selected by Hurley of the college. This information was handed out after the game last evening but did not reach this city until this morning. Jerder of Stoughton, was given the center position over Ward of Neillsville. Waterpool, forward for Neillsville, who scored five goals last night is given the other forward position, while Polaski, a Hartland guard of unusual ability, is given the fifth position on the selection. Dearborn of Janesville, Sullivan of Stoughton and Gust of Neillsville, are given honorable mention for their clean playing.

CARROLL AND LAWRENCE DEBATING TEAMS MEET.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Appleton, Wis., March 19.—Two teams will represent Lawrence college in the state intercollegiate debate, which will be staged today in this city and in Carroll. The Albion college team will come here, while a Lawrence team will meet Carroll college at the latter place.

The question to be debated is: "Resolved, That the Principal in the Clayton act of 1914, excepting labor from operations of anti-trust acts, is justifiable." The team which will meet the Albion trio comprises Willard S. Ford of Sparta; John Moody of Wausau; and Albert Frankline of Appleton. Peter Mielcheck of Calumet, Mich.; George Bouchard of Munster, Mich.; and Norman Cawley of Elmwood, England, went to Carroll.

RED SOX WILL WIN PENNANT, SAYS TRIS.

Tris Speaker has already begun to count his world series money. With an even break in luck, the prospects for the Boston Red Sox look mighty good to me, observed Tris. "We seem to have the class of the league this year, though it is a long way from April to September."

JOE WELLING SCORES VICTORY AT KENOSHA

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Kenosha, Wis., March 19.—Joe Welling, giving away six pounds in weight, took down the long end of the decision in another battle Thursday night, his third straight win.

This time Jack Dols, Spring Valley phonon, was the victim, and while the Chicagoan did not put over his will known sleep producing wallow, he won far enough on points to make the popular verdict unanimous. The bout, a ten round affair, was the final to the all-star show staged by George Tully and Al Bloom, and for action the card left nothing to be desired, even though tophotters were missing from the program. Each of the bouts produced some sensational milking, the winners besides Welling being Frankie Whitney over Johnny Ritchie, and Bobby Scanlon over Rabbit Hedlin.

ANNUAL INDOOR MEET STAGED IN MILWAUKEE.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milwaukee, Wis., March 19.—The ninth annual indoor meet of the Milwaukee country Sunday schools will be run off in the Y. M. C. A. gym here this afternoon, under the auspices of the Sunday School Athletic association.

The following events are scheduled: One hundred-yard dash, 120 yard dash, 880 yard dash, relay race, standing broad jump, high jump, pole vault and shot put. A gold medal will be given to the winner of each event in his respective class. The entrants have been divided into four classes—55 pounds, 115 pounds, 135 pounds, and seniors. Carl Juergens will referee.

Golf is the most aggravating, satisfying, seductive, royal sport in the world, asserted Assistant Secretary Crafts W. Higgins of the Western Golf Association. It is the most democratic of all sports. An emperor can play it no better than a caddy, perhaps not so well. It is as absorbing as the stock market; as fascinating as draw poker; as willful as pursuit of the thoroughbred; as uncertain as love; as coy as youth itself.

The bad score of today is forgotten in the prize winning dream of tomorrow. In every tee is embedded the anchor of hope, every green is starred with the rainbows of promise.

For the love of Mike! No wonder—get that dog out there—what d'yer think this car is—a jitney bus?

Now she goes a'right don't she?—mustn't over-load these things you know—

Yesterday a visitor from Chicago, when looking shall Field & Co. When we told her the price was $1.50 the yard we were surprised at her astonishment and fearing that our price was too high inquired what Marshall Field & Co. asked. Our visitor replied that she "wasn't just sure whether it was $3.00 or $3.50."

There will always be things surprising in this great establishment—both for visitors and our own home people—because the merchandise is continually changing—new things coming in every day and others moving out again while still new. This is really the secret of our success.

THE BOY FARMER

Or a Member of the Corn Club

By ASA PATRICK

Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.

There was no time to have soil analyzed this year, but he began to closely study the wild vegetation and weeds growing about and to read the bulletins and the book he had bought on "How Crops Grow." It wasn't an easy subject by any means. Sam read and reread the book and finally went over it slowly and studied it page by page. Pretty soon he knew nearly as much about the soil he was cultivating as any expert could have told him. Here is what he learned about soil fertility:

Acid in soil that causes crops to die and die is indicated by sorrel growing on the land. Acid can easily be detected also by getting a slip of blue litmus paper for a nickel at the drug store and pressing it in a ball of the soil. If it turns red there is acid. An application of lime cures this.

Crops and plants of all kinds are fed by several elements of the soil, but there are three more important than the rest—nitrogen, potash and phosphoric acid.

Nitrogen forms the leaves of plants—that part of the plant body which breathes.

Potash makes the trunk, stalk and tuber of plant or tree.

Phosphoric acid reproduces—sets the blooms and makes abundant seed and fruit.

Sam learned these things from reading. But, when he knew them, all he had to do was to look about the farm and learn more things by observation.

Where trees grew or had grown well he knew that potash was plentiful. If leaves were rank, nitrogen was abundant. If flowers formed and fell off the plants before they should be, he knew the soil needed phosphoric acid.

Finally the young farmer formed what he had learned into nine rules and wrote them down in the back of one of his books, as follows:

"1. Nitrogen (or ammonia) encourages strong leaf, vine and bush growth.

"2. Potash makes firm tuber, bulb and fiber.

"3. Phosphoric acid makes blooms set and seeds and seed pods form abundantly.

"4. If the wild growth on your farm is profuse and your tomatoes and melon vines run to leaf your soil is rich in nitrogen.

"5. If trees do not thrive, onions seem soggy and tomato vines lack sturdiness of stalk the soil needs potash.

"6. If your tomatoes, melons, grain and cotton fail to set plenty of seed and fruit phosphoric acid is called for.

"7. If you expect to take from your land a crop rich in leaf, as lettuce, increase the proportion of nitrogen in your fertilizer.

"8. If potatoes or onions are desired provide plenty of potash.

"9. If abundant corn, wheat, cotton bolls, melons, peaches, strawberries or tomatoes are wanted see to the phosphoric acid."

Sam made use of what he had learned in planting and cultivating his crops. He watched them closely, and if it seemed to him that any of them were not doing well he began to hunt and study out the cause.

Although he had fertilized all of the farm to some extent before plowing, he worked manure into the furrows when he plowed his cotton and tried to give everything he planted the food it demanded to do its best. He found out that one good way to apply this food was to sprinkle it on the surface of the ground around the plants and work it in gently with hoe or rake.

Sam made a top application of this food to his cotton when it was well advanced in the summer. The soil of the cotton acre had been well fertilized in the beginning, but Sam didn't want that corn to lack for any of the elements it needed to make two big, with black seed and blood red meat, sweet as sugar. These melons always brought something above the regular market price. In all the young farmer sold $40 worth of melons and vegetables.

The June corn made a fair crop. Sam sold the roasting ears at one cent each. These brought him $20. Then he cut and cured the stalks for feed. The ground being once more cleared, he plowed, harrowed and planted it in turnips.

Sam found that a little farm of fifteen acres can keep two or three people very busy, especially when the farm is made to hump itself, growing one crop right after another. Hardly a day passed that he or his sister didn't have to drive to town to sell something. Whenever it could be arranged Sam always let Florence go, for then he could be hurrying the heavy work forward.

September came and Florence entered the high school, but Sam, badly as he wanted to begin, found it impossible to do so until after Christmas. However, he began studying at night, and for all the hard work he did he managed to keep pretty close up with his classes.

Late in the fall he dug the acre of sweet potatoes, after stripping off the vines and feeding them to his hogs, and found that he had 150 bushels of "pumpkin yams." He stored twenty-five bushels for home use and sold the other 125 bushels at $1 per bushel.

Sam Powell never forgot what the government agent told him about seed. When his contest acre was at maturity he went down the rows and tied strings to the stalks, that bore the most and the finest ears.

In the same way, also, the young farmer selected his cotton seed. Here and there in the rows he found stalks that were unusually large and perfect in shape. These were generally in some rich place where they had been particularly favored. If they were heavily loaded with bolls and the bolls were large and low down on the stalks, indicating that they would open early, Sam tied white strings on them in conspicuous places.

It may seem that with all this work Sam Powell had little or no time for pleasure or recreation. Such was not the case, however, though he sometimes had to work longer hours than he liked because he was not able to get help.

But Sam had got in the habit of using his mind. He never imitated other people in doing a thing without stopping to think why it was done or if there was a better way. He soon found out that it pays to keep oneself fresh and vigorous. By taking the proper rests and breathing spells and working at certain hours he found that he could do as much or more work in eight hours as in twelve. After that he did not commence work before daylight or quit after dark, as he had been doing. He saw also that it was a good idea to take a half day or a day off now and then.

One of the things that Sam enjoyed a great deal was to ramble through the woods and fields and study nature. He was what is called a nature lover—that is, he never tired of studying trees and flowers and birds and insects and animals. It was a mighty hard matter for him to go after the calves and get back in time for breakfast. It was not more than a quarter of a mile to where the calves were usually found—in a little meadow beyond the creek—but the earlier Sam started in the morning the later he would usually be in returning.

He would get up sometimes while it was still dark and only the first red streaks of dawn showing in the east. He would get out in the fresh air and throw out his arms and take deep breaths and walk about the yard for a few minutes; then he would be off suddenly, whistling a lively tune and scattering the dew from the grass and plants with his feet.

He liked to sit down on the creek bank in the dim light of morning and watch the world just waking up. A slight noise from some big tree toads told him that crows were leaving their roost. A louder flapping meant buzzards. A splash in the creek announced that a bullfrog was taking his morning bath. Now and then a possum would waddle by or a bearded coon returning from his fishing up the creek would stop to eye Sam inquisitively.

Crossing the creek and getting pretty close to the calves, he would stop suddenly again to watch three or four rabbits at their morning romp in the dewy grass. Farther on he might find a strange flower or shrub and study it over so long, trying to determine the name of it. Sam and Florence were both nature enthusiasts, and there were few flowers or trees the names of which they didn't know.

Finally, the young farmer would find the calves and start them home, and he might get there by sunrise if he didn't find something else to interest him.

When he came in, fresh, bright eyed and hungry from his walk and found breakfast waiting, his mother would ask:

"Why, what makes you so late getting back, Sam?"

"Oh, I've been watching ol' Brer Rabbit and Brer Possum," he would reply. He had read the stories of Uncle Remus and always called animals by the names the old darky gave them.

One Saturday morning Bill Googe climbed over the fence and came to where Sam was at work.

"Hello, Sam!" he greeted. "Say, let's go fishin' this evenin'."

"Are you up with your work?" asked Sam.

"You bet. I've got loafin' round when they's work needin' doin'. Everythin' right up to now."

"All right, then," said Sam; "I'll be glad to go. I was just thinking about it."

OPPOSES MARRIAGES UNDER COMMON LAW

Senator Boshard Would Require Observation of Conventions of "Civilized Society."

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., March 19.—Marriages that do not conform with the conventions of civilized society, was the way Senator Otto Boshard, La Crosse, referred to common law marriage contracts, appearing before the senate judiciary committee on behalf of his bill, to prohibit such marriages.

"I want to see marriages contracted according to statutory law on the subject," said the La Crosse senator. "There ought to be enough respect for the conventions of civilized society that in contracting matrimony people shall do it according to the marriage laws of the state. As a matter of policy we should not in this state continue to require this common law marriage. Every week we read of couples trying to evade the civil penalties marriage law by tying up by a common law contract."

The senator continued to require that the committee, composed of the bill, Senator Bennett and Fairchild, of the committee, opposed the bill. Senator Bennett told of divorced couples becoming reconciled and cohabiting for many years afterwards without the law's interference, even though the laws of the state say it is adultery. The law, he said, works a hardship if it illegitimizes the offspring in such cases.

Senator Fairchild believed in allowing public opinion to settle such matters. The conditions cited arose from a natural development in society, and if to avoid public confession of indiscretions a man and woman marry by contrast, he felt that public morals were not thereby greatly injured.

The Best Objective, Salvation

By REV. J. H. RALSTON
Secretary of Correspondence Department
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.—Phil. 3:14.

In seeking an objective, the principle that nothing should be accepted but the best, should be adopted. When men were thinking deeply, and the great doctrines of the Protestant faith were being put into creedal form, it was declared that the chief end of man was the glory of God, and nothing has transpired since to show that this was an error, but everything has shown most conclusively that the statement was justified. A man who lives with the glory of God in view will not, cannot fail.

The Thoughtless Multitudes. Nothing is much more disheartening than to watch the multitudes, especially in our crowded cities, who seem to have no goal in view. They seem to exist for the moment—butterflies that fly before you for an instant and then are gone. If other companies of people are considered, the fact still confronts one. If bread and butter can be secured, there is no more concern; but the swine get to that point. Young people in the schools may have a somewhat larger appreciation of their mission or goal, but must go forward with nothing in view.

In a small volume recently issued there is this quotation: "The world stops to let the man pass who knows whither he is going." That man has an objective, a goal, commands universal respect, and the world gives him passage. If this sermon falls into the hands of some young person, whether he is a Christian or not, let him know that he must have a goal in view or he will fail in life, and if the goal is not one that relates him to God the failure will be the greater and more deplorable. And, if a person has a goal and resolutely keeps his eye on it, he will not be diverted by anything. If the goal is that set before him in Paul's "fullness of the stature of Christ," he will not be diverted by any of the many religious now seeking the attention of people throughout the world. To him, the religion of Paul, Luther, Calvin and Wesley will be accepted as reliable and worthy of following until the goal is reached.

Paul's Objective. In the text, Paul, who was a man doing only one thing at a time, said that he pressed toward the mark for the prize of the high calling in Christ Jesus. Without considering the strictly theological bearing of these words, let us note the source of the call. He who calls is God, who knows man, his capacities and possibilities, and sets before him his best, and he calls to him to make the attempt to reach it. Every person, old or young, should remember that it's God that is calling—not man, nor the greatest of men—and when God calls who dare be indifferent?

Jesus as Savior and Lord. First, the recognition and acceptance of Jesus Christ as a savior, personal and sufficient. This involves the surrender of the intellect, the heart, and the will; in fact, the surrender of the life. Second, it is a recognition of the kingship, or lordship, of Christ. Many seem to be willing to accept Christ as savior, but they do not recognize him as Lord. The failure of the latter utterly vitiates the former—no savior unless Christ be Lord. This carries us back to the realm of the Puritans, who saw that the chief end of man was the glory of God, for man who accepts Jesus Christ as savior and Lord makes every thought, word and action tend to his glory and his honor.

This will naturally lead to the realization of man's goal—companionship and partnership with Jesus Christ. The realization of Paul's prayer can only partially be secured on this earth, but the perfect realization will be when we are with him where he is. This should be the ultimate goal—to be with Christ.

The goals of life which seem attractive and in some senses worthy soon pass like the chapter on the brow of the ancient athlete, but there is a goal for everyone which, if reached, will secure a crown, a golden crown, that is precious and durable.

Have a goal; have a vision; secure an objective; keep your eyes steadily on it and you will reach it, and, by all means, let the objective of all be—the attainment of the stature of the fullness of Christ.

Fact Not Generally Known. Contrary to general belief, the Babes in the Wood were not innocent darlings, but outlaws who infested the hills of County Wicklow, Ireland, many years ago.

JONATHAN AND HIS ARMOR-BEARER.
(The Story.)

The black curtain has begun to descend upon the shining portrait of Saul. It was a fading faith and a perverse spirit that pulled it down. The ingenious country boy, full of piety and patriotism, was spoiled by power and pride. He who had been a sovereign sovereign, now felt himself a slave and grasped at it in unseemly ways. Frantic with fear lest Samuel should not appear in time and so he cunningly assumed the prophet-priest's place and rashly, without warrant, himself proceeded to offer the propitiatory sacrifices before engaging in battle to gain the immortal fame of heroism, which had it turned out otherwise would have been characterized as hair-brained. The very fact that he did not tell his father of his intention shows that the exploit was undertaken for his father's sake. Again one little word of his own discloses the fact that his bravery was based upon his faith. There is no restraint with the Lord to many or by few. No doubt but there was a divine affluence upon Jonathan like that which came upon Saul in that national crisis at the beginning of his career. Answering his challenge, the Philistines showed their state of mind as Jonathan knew they would in some form or other. The exploit was a self-satisfied overconfidence which can so easily and quickly be changed into the cowering fear that causes panic and stampede. The remarkable incident is capable of ready psychological analysis. A holy frenzy came upon Jonathan. He felt the imperative need of a victory, both for father's sake and his country's sake. He believed God had commissioned him and would aid him to achieve it. This made him fairly invincible. He demoted his armor-bearer, who loved, admired, and had implicit confidence in him. The two men acted as one. It was a case of military team work of which there are doubtless many in the war now waging. The lapse from pretentiousness to arrogant timidity is easy. The bragging is already the coward. Perhaps Jonathan's vision included that general rout of the enemy which immediately followed. The other divisions of the hostile army were only conscious of some disaster, the proportions of which they quickly magnified immensely, even to irretrievable ruin. In the universal melee, friends, as often happens, were mistaken for foes and the Philistines slaughtered each other. This new and unexpected victory perching on Saul's banners was one more clear call to the rescue king. He was a block under his castle, he was down to the knees in ruin. Will he avail himself of it, or will sin as ever prove inveterate?

The Teacher's Lantern. Jonathan was only twenty years old when he performed this intrepid exploit. This was distinctly a young man's achievement. A considerable percentage of all the brilliant accomplishments in art, science, literature, invention, exploration are the deeds of men between twenty and thirty years of age. Procrastination is not only the thief of time, it is the robber of all the arts as well. The greatest paintings have never come to the world from the most glorious statues have never been set free from marble. The scores of the greatest oratorical have never been written. Ideals were delayed. What is worth doing at all is not only worth doing well, but quickly; Obduracy is paved with lost masterpieces. Saul had begun his descent to hell. His first step was taken when he broke with Samuel, his faithful monitor. A parallel presents itself in Roman history when Nero abdicated the throne. The deep melancholy of Saul excited the city. It approached madness, but there is everything to indicate that the king was consciously responsible for his actions. It is at least a question whether the plea of insanity is not greatly overworked in our courts today. If so, crime is condoned and encouraged. Saul's religion was not of such character as to express itself in the delay of action. On the contrary, it was something fitful, emotional, superstitious. It takes a noble spirit to do what he did. He was a hero, but he consciously played the second part, but he played it as spiritedly as if it had been first. Without him the enterprise would have failed. Yet he dropped into anonymity and was satisfied with his fate. The grand is an ancient example of successful team work. The plan was wisely chosen, there was perfect understanding on the part of those who were to play it. Each played the game with spirit, precision and vigor. Though the odds were so great, the victory was complete. It is the justification of athletics in current college life. At the advantage of military discipline and exploits without their fearful sanguinary and deadly toll can be secured by them. On gridiron and bases instant obedience, dextrous co-operation, arduous training all are learned and all the gains carried over into the moral, social intellectual life. On the black background and of Saul's disobedience the use of sacrifice stands silhouetted. The priest of the Universe cannot possibly gain anything for himself in that which he is devoted to him. Sacrifice is only God's instrument to culture man's soul. Where sacrifice is made with unworthy motives as in Saul's case, it is utterly abortive. Well did Samuel say, "God delights in obedience rather than in sacrifice." Saul laying hold of Samuel's mantle makes one of the most pathetic scenes of history. Yet it is a tribute to the price which is being paid for the prize which is receding from them. Their own conduct puts that which they covet most, fatally and forever, beyond their reach.

Favorite Books of the Bible and Why.
As the spoken word parts from human lips and falls on human ear, so Jesus came from God to man to impart a divine meaning. He is God's "Word." In the very person, as well as in his message, he shows us the kind of a life that pleases his Father. Revelation has been progressive. God kept speaking from time to time and in various ways to those who were capable of hearing him. Revelation has also been cumulative. Jesus is the climax. As of all God spoke in the person of his Son. Jesus is thus the world's working model. The Gospel of Saint John probably presents his life in his capacity more fully than any other portion of Scripture. Consequently it is undoubtedly, in the whole, the favorite book of the largest number of Bible readers.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, March 19.—The teachers of the Congregational Church entered the high school at the Sunday School classes last evening in the basement of the church. The time was very pleasantly spent in playing various parlor games and during the program light refreshments were served.

Camilla Hanson spent yesterday visiting her mother who is confined in the Mercy Hospital at Janesville. Miss W. Clark and Nora Lein spent yesterday visiting the different schools in Milton Junction. Rollin Ellison visited friends in Milton Junction yesterday. Miss Mary Adams visited friends in Janesville yesterday. G. W. Blake of Fort Atkinson was a business caller in this city yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wright of Janesville called on friends in the city yesterday. L. Dalton of Milwaukee was a business caller in this city yesterday.

L. A. Wellman of Madison transacted business in this city yesterday. The Edgerton High School sent quite a delegation to the Milton basketball tournament yesterday. Although Edgerton didn't win any of the three places awarded they are satisfied that they have a good team. They will have a game next year, with the exception of Leo Whitford and Morris Hitchcock, but Sweeney and Thompson will be able to hold down those positions. Next year they hope to win a first honor.

The following attended the games yesterday: Harold Sutton, Leroy Hubbell, John Nichols, John Leary, Adolph Smith, John Strassburg, Adolph Jensen, Paul Jeon, Clayton Williams, Connie Milburn, John Flagg, Willard Summers, and Misses Jessie Bierdman, Genevieve He Bradley, Grace McDonough, Verma Tall, Arnes Dickinson, Elmer Morrison, Lois Slagg, Ruth Clarke and Jessie Stone.

Mrs. S. F. Madden returned from Chicago where she has been visiting friends in that city for the past week. John Madden has been transacting business in Edgerton for the past few days. He returned to this city last evening.

The men's club of the Congregational Church will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cullen tonight at eight o'clock. Subject for discussion will be the Mexican situation. Up-to-date speakers C. A. Hoen and others, music and refreshments.

Freshman Literary Society met in the high school auditorium last evening at seven thirty and rendered a very interesting program. Debate and several five minutes talks by the different members of the society.

Mrs. Albert Smith spent yesterday visiting friends in Janesville. Mrs. Fred Smith is confined to her home with sickness.

Richard Curtiss was a business caller in Whitewater yesterday. James Christensen of Chicago transacted business in this city yesterday.

John S. Coward of Madison called on friends in this city yesterday. Mrs. Earl Langworthy is spending a few days visiting at the home of Mrs. Harry Post of this city.

David Foster of Beloit was calling on friends in this city yesterday. H. W. Elk of New York City was transacting business in this city for a few days during the past week.

Geo. Farman was a business caller in Milton yesterday. Attorney Hinkley of La Crosse was a business caller in this city yesterday.

The Junior High School team of this city in charge of Prof. Lamorson, left this morning for Madison where they will play the Junior High School team of that city tonight.

CORN PRODUCTS COMPANY FILES SUIT IN FEDERAL COURT AGAINST WEIGLE
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., March 19.—The former state dairy and food commissioner, J. Q. Emery, having retired from company, the Corn Products Refining company, New York, has filed suit in the federal court against his successor, George J. Weigle, seeking to restrain the enforcement of the Wisconsin law which demands that so-called corn syrup should be labeled according to the predominant elements of which it is composed. It is expected that the testimony and other necessary portions of the Emery case will be admitted in this suit without the necessity of re-opening the ground previously gone over in the long trial in which Dr. Harvey W. Wiley was the star witness for the state.

Judge A. L. Sanborn of the federal district court, Madison, has had the case under advisement for several months and has his decision in preparation.

PEOPLE OF CURACAO VICTIMS OF STRIFE

Inhabitants of Dutch Island Thrown Out of Work Since German Ships Have Been Chased Off Seas.

(Correspondence Associated Press)
The Hague, March 19.—Curacao, the Dutch Island colony near Venezuela, although far away from the scene of hostilities and belonging to a neutral nation, is one of the victims of the world's war. In answer to a pressing call for aid Queen Wilhelmina and the Minister of the Interior have appointed a commission to inquire into the condition of the colonists.

Thousands of the natives, it appears, have been thrown out of work by the disappearance from the seas of German merchant ships, which made the capital of the Dutch colony a regular place to call. Many persons have been forced to return from Venezuela and the other South American republics to their homes in the two islands of Curacao, Bonaire, Aruba, Sabana and Santa Cruz, because all trade between Venezuela and Germany has stopped.

The industries of the Dutch islands themselves have been brought to a standstill. Many of the phosphate mines have ceased work, as it was found impossible to export their products, and the straw hat trade, which usually keeps the peasants alive in times of drought, has been ruined. Hats to the value of $400,000 were generally sold every year until the outbreak of the war. This season, however, scarcely any orders have been received, and the poor people, whose harvests have been ruined by the drought, have been left without food in many districts. Official reports received by the home government show that among the inhabitants of Aruba have succumbed to famine and that the situation is gradually growing worse.

Oh, what has become of the old-fashioned lover,
Who called for his sweetheart
And took her out riding, by gum,
In the cutter,
And drove with one arm draped

And riding has lost at least one of its charms;
Because, steering as you see, when he's
He has to keep driving with both of his arms.

The Plug Hat.
This year, 1915, is the centenary of the silk hat, known in common parlance as the tile, the plug and the stovepipe.
The first silk hat was manufactured and worn in this country in 1815. Some of the silk hats made in that year are still being worn. One can see them upon occasion of every great local society event, or when Maude Adams or grand opera come to town.

On an occasion of this kind one can see silk hats of every style that has been manufactured from 1815 to 1915.
It is necessary to change the style of silk hats every year. If the style was not changed there would be no sale for them. An ordinary silk hat will wear as long as a castiron paper weight. It is impossible to kill them off.

KING ALBERT REPLIES TO BOY WHO SENT LETTER ABOUT BATTLE
(Correspondence Associated Press)
London, March 19.—A Scarborough school boy who wrote to the King of Belgium, describing the bombardment of the town and the part he thanking him particularly for his postscript, in which he said: "We Majesty 'The Hero King.' Vive le Roi!"

The King's reply says:
"My dear Boy: Your letter testified sympathetic thoughts, with which the King has been greatly impressed. It appears in Gazette de la is with all his heart that His Majesty thanks you for your pretty words.

Your time is worth too much to you to make a personal canvass in Janesville. A few minutes will give you at a glance the offers of the best real estate firms in the city. These are catching — and plaids go well, too.

This is particularly true of Continental stripes and plaids. There is that newness and brightness and exclusiveness recognized the instant we show them. They are different from those you see any place else because for 44 years the Continental Tailors have been learning how to get ahead of the other fellow.

The EASTER SENSATION

THE big Easter sensation of this year is the great number of our hand tailored made-to-measure clothes in town. Nearly everybody feels that he ought to be ready for Easter with a new suit. Easter means the blossoming out of the new — the shedding of the grayness of winter for the brilliancy of spring and sunshine.

Are you ready with your new suit? Have you looked at the snappy spring fabrics? They are really snappy this year. The stripes are catching — and plaids go well, too.

This is particularly true of Continental stripes and plaids. There is that newness and brightness and exclusiveness recognized the instant we show them. They are different from those you see any place else because for 44 years the Continental Tailors have been learning how to get ahead of the other fellow.

We selected the Continental Tailors to do our tailoring because we have concluded they are ahead of EVERYTHING. Exclusive fabrics—exclusive styles. Don't be months behind in style—start Easter right.

Style setters since 1871, making guaranteed all wool and guaranteed to fit suits all of that time. The guarantee of fit and style and finish is a double guarantee. Continental guarantee and ours. The fact is — you must be satisfied. Even if we think the suit is all right, you don't keep it if you don't like it. Come in and let's talk about it.

Two Fine Easter Specials
We're showing two suits here just as a suggestion. They will look as well on you as the illustrations show them here—for these illustrations are taken from the clothes themselves as they are worn. Either would make a fine Easter suit. Come in and compare the styles in the two suits pictured here with some others we have. Maybe we have something you would like better. There are hundreds of different materials to select from, and styles to satisfy any individual taste.

Suits just like those illustrated (we guarantee that) will come to you hand tailored—made of fine wool—cloth as-shrunk so rain can't hurt it—cut by finest designers and guaranteed to fit or you need not take it.

When Is Garden Soil Ready For Planting?

Average Back-Yard Soil Is Poor, But Good Results May Be Obtained If Careful Attention Is Given It in the Spring.

"When is the proper time for preparing to plant one's garden?" The United States department of agriculture's specialist says that in the spring as soon as the soil has dried so that a handful, when grasped in the hand and gripped by the fingers will slowly fall apart upon being released, it is in a fit mechanical condition to prepare for planting. Clay or heavy soils should never be worked while wet. Soil injury may be done by doing this, and can be overcome in several years of careful culture. When the soil is found dry, as described above, the upper three inches should be hoed and the surface of the hoe and steel-tooth roller should be removed, and the surface made even, somewhat compact, and as level as the contour of the area will permit. It may be marked off for planting in conformity to the general plan of the garden.

Much of the soil in the average back yard is not only poor in plant food and lacking in staying vegetable matter, but it is hard and unyielding. However, such is the basis which many a housewife or child has to use for the making of a garden.

Teachers who plan school gardens for their pupils also have similar conditions to meet. Therefore, in order to get good results, careful attention must be given to the preparation of the soil.

Soils which are naturally moist are likely to be sour and so not in the best condition for the crop. Whether sour or not, it will be well to have the pupils test them, which can be done as follows: Secure from a drug store a piece of blue litmus paper, then take a handful of the soil, slightly moistened, and place the paper on it. If sour the paper will turn red. To correct such a condition lime should be used. Cover the ground with a thin coat of air-slaked lime, which can probably be secured nearby at small cost, and work this in well. The use of the lime, while not a plant food, will correct the acidity and will improve the physical condition of the soil.

If the soil is clayey or a stiff clay loam and the location is in a section where severe freezing occurs, it will be found a decided advantage to give the area a heavy dressing of decomposed manure in the autumn, and before freezing weather sets in spade the manure so as to turn the manure under and leave the soil in a rough lump condition so as to secure the benefit of the digestive action of the winter freezes in reducing the soils. This should be repeated annually at the north. If the soil is light and sandy, a much of manure may be spread over it in the fall and the spreading delayed until spring.

In localities where the soil does not freeze, the manure may be applied in the autumn and the soil repeatedly spaded during the winter whenever it is too rough to be worked. The value of freezing at the north can to an extent be attained by repeated spadings at the south. The one general precaution which should always be taken is never stir the soil while it is wet.

CORN CONTEST BOYS AT STATE CAPITAL

Delightful Day Enjoyed by Party of Thirty-Seven, the Guests of the Commercial Club.

One boy walked eight miles yesterday morning, arising at three o'clock in order to reach Jansville in time to go with the other corn contest boys on the trip to Madison, which was the offering of the Commercial club, and which had been held off because of the prevalence of the foot and mouth disease until Thursday.

This boy's interest was a fair sample of the enthusiasm that was manifested among the thirty-seven boys who formed the party which journeyed to the Capitol City yesterday. After listening to Dean Davenport of Illinois, the boys were taken to the Agromony building where Professor R. A. Moore talked to them for a few moments and from that point Professor Garland of the university extension department took the party in charge visiting the various agricultural buildings, including the animal husbandry buildings.

The gymnasium and historical library received attention and the time meal was taken at the Park Hotel. At two p. m. the party met Governor Phillips, who talked for a few minutes to the boys, advising them to stay upon the farm, and Speaker of the Assembly Lawrence C. Whitteit also spoke a few words to them. A guide took the party to all of the interesting points in the capitol building and all of the various features to them.

The day was one which will be remembered for all time by those 37 boys and it was worth all of the effort which it cost the Commercial club. The following gentlemen: John Fisher, Center; C. E. Stoney, Clinton; William Hankey, Rock Prairie; William Dean, Avon, and D. H. Sayre, Jr., Filton, accompanied the party and seemed to enjoy the day as much as the boys themselves.

During the day 32 of the boys expressed a desire to join the contest which occurs each year so that a splendid start has already been made for the contest of 1915.

Those boys who gave their names to J. A. Markham, field secretary, are as follows: Donald Campbell, Litch Township, Evansville; Fred Miller, Harry Jaeger, Jansville, Rte. 6; Hugh Fisher, Evansville, Rte. 17; George Austin, Charles Courtney, Ellis Douglas, Jansville, Rte. 8; Wesley Stoney, Clinton; Willie Seidmore, Albert Seidmore, Jansville, Rte. 7; Harold Smith, Jansville, Rte. 3; Dewey Jones, Albert Austin, Jansville, Rte. 2; Baxter Sayre, Edgerton; Roland Rice, Gerald Sayre, Merrill McCartney, Milton; Emory Rote, Footsville; John Cowan, Hancovers, John Telch, Clinton; Fritz Behling, Clinton, Rte. 35; Harold McKewan, Jansville, Rte. 1; Aden Clark, Milton; David Deard, Valon; Milton Engstrom, Rte. 11; Myrl Davis, Elmer Bingham, Milton; Elmer Egan, Brodhead; Roy Kramer, Clinton.

OFFERS BILL TO HAVE SCHOOL BOARDS NAMED BY COMMISSION MAYOR

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., March 19.—Senator A. P. Tomkins of Ashland has offered a bill relating to school boards in third class cities operating under the commission form of government. It provides that the school board shall consist of six members at large, appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the council, one of whom is to be elected by the council. Of the at-large members, two shall serve for one year, two for two years, and two for three years, and thereafter each member at large shall be appointed for a term of three years and shall serve until his successor is appointed and qualified. The council shall annually elect one of its members to the board.

Spring Fashions Blooming In Charming Profusion At The Big Store

It only needs the first touch of that magic worker, Spring, to bring about a condition in this store for which we made every preparation to accommodate. Today every department devoted to fashion was crowded, a tacit acknowledgment and recognition of the style leadership of this store and which has been won on merit alone.

THE ENTIRE DISPLAY will appeal to women who understand dress, as no exhibition of this sort has ever done before. An authoritative display in the broadest sense of the word and typical of the progressive spirit that rules THE BIG STORE.

The New Blouses

The new blouses are exceedingly attractive. They are shown in all degrees of elegance, from the simple affair to the lovely creations in dainty chiffon and laces.

Exquisite Silks

The "always beautiful" silks are most appealing this season, in their elegant soft luxuriousness. No past season have we shown such a charming assortment.

Dress Goods

The newest things, the pretty fabrics, a veritable feast of colors in the dress goods section a fascinating bewilderment of exquisite weaves in all the charming new Spring colors that have been pronounced correct for the coming season, are here.

Ribbon Section

The Ribbon Section is a thing of beauty, with its myriad colors and exquisite combinations. Every shade is here, also the ribbon flowers for spring and summer that are now on display.

Fancy Goods Department

It will pay you to visit this department when in the store, all the newest ideas in needlework are here. Be sure and see the finished pieces on display.

The New Wash Fabrics

A department that should receive a good share of your consideration. French Crepe, Reception Voiles, Lace Voiles, Alligator Voiles, La Toe Chiffon, Crepe Cyclonette, Mercerized Batiste, Marquisette, Silk and Cotton Crepe De Chine, Spider Mulls, etc. Be sure and visit this department.

The Neckwear Section

In this section we are showing scores of clever new ideas. There's not a desirable piece of neckwear made this season that we do not show, from the very inexpensive to the exclusive effects.

Jewelry Department

The new Jewelry for Easter, wonderful assortment to choose from, now so conspicuous among the accessories of a well dressed woman is featured here in striking and tempting displays. Many new things are shown.

Gloves For Spring

Buy your gloves to match your Easter gown. Buying gloves at this store is sure satisfaction. All lengths are here in silk and kid, nothing is lacking to satisfy the individual desire to match the Easter gown.

Second Floor, Take Elevator

Be sure and visit this department—it is a show in itself. Come and inspect the new Carpets, Rugs, Curtains, Draperies, etc., that we have assembled for your selection.

THE EASIEST WAY TO END DANDRUFF

Stop Falling Hair and Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to keep your hair looking rich, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.
